2020 年 1-4 月雅思口语仙子高分讲义

序

死生契阔，与子成说。执子之手，与子偕老。在《诗经·邶风·击鼓》的韵律吟诵下，我们想从世事浮华里找寻可以相伴一生的挚友或爱人。但是，物欲横流下，飞鸟与鱼的故事屡见不鲜，我们会彷徨、会迷惘、会慎思、会质疑，但我们更应该努力。韩愈曾云：“业精于勤荒于嬉。”希望《执手·勤业》能够成为你人生重要成长阶段的朋友和助你抟扶摇而上九万里的鲲鹏。

For example, trouble + hand

4. what's the best part of your city?

Food + mw + e.g. = I am a foodie + so the city can meet my desire

✓ Your study

话题词:

science and engineering 理工科

the early bird catches the worm 早起的鸟儿有虫吃

1. Which school are you in now?

My university is ~, which is located in the rural area of 城市名. I am very proud to tell you that my school in science and engineering can rank in the top 10 in my country. However, I'm not one of them because of my poor math. [瘪嘴&fake smile]

注意备考 math, 后续问到 math 的概率飙升!

2. Why did you choose it?

I chose this school not only because of its outstanding and responsible teachers, but also the gorgeous campus environment. For example, HUIFANG Lake in the centre of the campus can provide us with a quiet leisure place. When we are tired, we can go there for a walk to relax.

3. who is more important to you, classmate or the teacher?

Both of them are playing important roles in my life. When I am lonely, classmates can accompany me and comfort me; in my daily life, teachers will impart knowledge to strengthen my ability.

4. do you prefer to study in the morning or afternoon?

I prefer to study in the morning, because there is an old Chinese saying goes, the early bird catches the worm [wɜ:m]. Moreover, I think my mind is clearer and my response is quicker at that time.

✓ Your accommodation

话题词:

化解尴尬: break the ice

1. Do you like to laugh?

I laugh every day, because I think there will always be something that can make me happy on a daily basis. Moreover, my parents told me that I should be grateful for life. Hence, I will laugh for toothsome food, happy experience, a new skill that I learned, or even a handsome boyfriend (必须要害羞&笑, 否则就去除最后一个例子)

2. Why do you laugh?

3. Do you often make people laugh?

Yes, when I encounter in an embarrassing situation, I will tell others some jokes to break the ice. On some important festivals, such as spring festival and lantern festival, I often give crosstalk to amuse my family. And my interesting plot and funny lines can always take them into a wonderful world to help them forget trouble in real life. That's good, I think.

4. Do you like to watch tv shows that can make you laugh?

✓ Math

话题词:

Calculate v. 计算

formula n. 公式

Function n. 函数

addition and subtraction 加减法 n.

Derivative n. 倒数[dɪ'rɪvətɪv]

1. When did you start leaning mathematics?

My parents began to teach me how to read numbers when I was 3 years old. It's sad, but I have to say that addition and subtraction are mandatory for every student in China, starting in first grade.

2. Do you like it?

I hate it. Because I cannot remember those boring formulas at all. Moreover, when I was in high school, math almost destroyed me, especially the function, I could only get 60 marks every time.

3. Do you think mathematics is important?

I have to admit that it is important. In life, we need to use mathematics to calculate money. What's more, in the field of science and technology, many industries need to use mathematics to accurately calculate data, such as architecture.

4. Do you use a calculator?

When I was in high school, I used a calculator a lot because I had to learn a lot of complicated math, like functions and derivatives. But not so much now, because the subject I am studying has little to do with mathematics.

2. Are you good at numbers?

No, I am not sensitive to numbers, so my math was very poor as well. I mean; when I was in high school, my math grades were so low, and everything about numbers is a nightmare to me. [摇头&苦笑]

3. How do you remember numbers?

Actually, I don't have to memorize numbers intentionally, because I can use my phone to record people's phone numbers or social media numbers directly. What's more, in China, online payments have become ubiquitous [ju:'bɪkwɪtəs] in almost every aspect of life, so I don't need to keep track of the amount of money.

✓ Spending time by yourself 【同 holiday】

1. Do you prefer a long vacation or a short vacation?

Actually, I don't mind as long as I can have a holiday, because I've been struggling with my paper for 3 months, which means I haven't travelled in the last few months. But if I have to say, a long vacation would be better, because I can visit a new place to try sth. new, taste sth. new, appreciate sth. new and experience sth. new. That will be fantastic.

✓ Pen & pencil

1. The last time you bought pen or pencil?

Wow, I think the last time I bought a pencil was three months ago. I mean; I spent 2000 yuan to buy a cute pink pencil on the IELTS test. And, now, I have already bought another new one. hhh 【必须笑着说，否则就改成正常的购物答案】

2. do you usually use pen or pencil?

Actually, I use pen or pencil once in a blue moon, because typing is much more convenient and wiser. For example, some typing software can mark and correct my spelling mistakes automatically. Besides, it's clearer than handwriting.

✓ Running

话题词

Path 跑道，小径 n.

refreshed adj. 神清气爽地

1. where do you love to run?

I love to run in the park near my home, simply because it is more convenient. Besides, there is a quiet path with various gorgeous flowers and trees, which can make me feel refreshed.

也可以选择时间频率法: usually, community; sometimes, park near my home 讲述各自原因

2. How long do you usually run?

Maybe(停一下 emm~) 20 to 30 mins at a time, because my physical strength is not good. And I need to struggle with my homework every day recently, so I cannot spend too much time in doing so.

✓ History

话题词

A dream of red masions 红楼

Downton Abbey 唐顿庄园

Four great classical Chinese works 四大名著

1. Have you ever been to historical museums before?

Yes, last summer, I travelled to Xi'an, a historical city located in the northwest of China. I visited its National Museum and saw many famous arts and crafts in that place, especially the "Dwelling in the Fuchun Mountains" painted by famous artist in ancient China named Huang Gongwang. I was amazed at its colourful matches and exquisite structure.

2. Did you like history when you were in high school?

No, because history was very difficult to learn at that time. I mean; we needed to recite tons numbers, years, names and so on. Therefore, although history is useful because we can learn some experience from the things happened before to help us avoid making unnecessary mistakes, I don't like it.

3. When was the last time you read a magazine or a book about history?

3 years ago, I read "A dream of red Masions", one of the four great classical novels of China. That book describes the entire history of a family from boom to bust, which is similar to Downton Abbey. I learned a lot about human life in that book. It's a great art.

PART 2

地点类

✓ A crowded place

- 1) Where it is
- 2) When you went to the place
- 3) Who you went with
- 4) How you felt about that place

The crowded place I'd like to describe is a huge shopping center called TIANZHEN, which is located in the heart of my city. This place was built about 10 years ago, and which has become particularly popular since its opening.

I visited to the place last weekend, because I wanted to buy a piece of clothes to protect me from the cold weather.

And I went to the place with my good friend John, 职年外。

It is so crowded because on the 3rd floor, you will find a large number of famous restaurants, and the food provided by them are very mouth-watering and toothsome, such as Peking duck, kunpao chicken, and so on. Many people like to have a dinner there.

Although there are so many people, I like it very much, because 1st, the assistants in that place are very hospitable and obliging. For example, if you want to look up the products what you need, they are willing to help you as soon as possible;

2nd, traffic system around that place is rather excellent. I mean; there are a lot of subway stations and bus stops near the gate of it. So, we can go to that place very conveniently.

3rd, on the top floor of that place, you can appreciate nearly all the natural landscapes and cultural relics of the whole city. It's so great and amazing.

P3

1. Do people in your country love to go to crowded places?

It depends.

Some people love to experience the atmosphere of real life, so they always show up in crowded places, such as shopping centers and famous restaurants. They think it's a good way to meet new people and get rid of their loneliness.

However, there are other people who don't like crowded places, because noise may make them upset. They are more likely to choose a quiet place to read or just do meditation. I think a garden - library is a good choice for them.

2. What can we do to solve the problem of traffic congestion?

For this, both the government and individuals should do efforts.

For governments, they need to expand the street or construct more reasonable highway overpasses to relieve the congestion. By doing so, the capacity of a road will increase.

Besides, for individuals, we should increase the frequency of taking public transportation ways, such as bus or subway. Especially the subway, which is the fastest public transport because it will not be stopped by the traffic lights due to its special tracks.

3. Why people love to live in big cities that are so crowded?

There are so many benefits of living in the cities that cannot be offered in the countryside.

1st, people can choose more advanced education for their kids because almost all the good teacher are working in schools of big cities. Living in the countryside, their children will lose the chance to get access to quality educational resources. (quality 可以作 adj.)

2nd, in commercial cities, people can choose more recreational activities to relax. For example, only in Shanghai, can we take photos and interact with lovely Disney characters; besides, if you want to say hello to Harry Potter, you can only do that in Beijing, because Beijing is going to build the only Universal Studio in China.

✓ A change that will improve your local area/community

- 1) What it is
- 2) How this change would be made
- 3) What problems the change might bring for you
- 4) How you feel about the change

The change I'd like to describe is that there will be a park near my community in the next year. That park will be named TIANZHEN. It will cover 300 hectares and become the biggest recreation center in our city.

As for how it will be built, I don't know, except that the government is already making some preliminary preparations.

Talking about the problems that building the park may bring for us, the noise should rank top 1, because many machines may make a lot of noise, which will affect our sleep quality and health.

However, I'm still looking forward to that change, because 1st, there will be a quiet track and lots of exercise equipment in the park, such as badminton field and basketball court, so that we can do all kinds of sports after work or study every day. That will also help us lose weight, because doing exercises can work the muscle and burn our calories;

2nd, in order to facilitate citizens to go to the park, there will also be two subway stations and five bus stops planned at the gate of the park. Luckily, we neighbourhood is next to this park, so it will be very convenient for us to go out every day as well.

Generally speaking, that's why I'd like to describe this change with you.

P3

1. What are the popular activities in a community?

That's a lot. Some communities in China have lots of sports facilities that people can do all kinds of exercises after dinner or in the morning, such as basketball and badminton.

But I think the most popular activity in a community should be walking, because nearly each community will provide a quiet track for the residents to walk. What's more, in the process of walking, you can also take a look at the flowers and plants in the community.

2. Is it important to communicate with neighbours?

Sure. I think humans are sentient animals, so we need to talk with others to get rid of the loneliness, especially for some old people whose kids are working in other cities that cannot accompany them. Then, neighbours can do that.

Moreover, we can discuss with our neighbours whether we need to build some pavilions or sports facilities in the community. At least, we can unite neighbours to vote. Besides, if you get in trouble, neighbours who are close to you will give you a hand as soon as possible. We said, a near neighbor is better than a distant family.

✓ A newly built public facility

- 1) Where it is
- 2) When was it built
- 3) What could you do there
- 4) How you feel about it

The new facility I want to describe is a park named TIANZHEN, which is located in the city centre. It is by far the largest park in our city, and which was built about 6 months ago.

The park was built to provide leisure for the citizens, so we can do all kinds of recreational activities there, including boating, flying kites, doing taichi and so on.

As for my feelings, I think it is an ideal place to kill time and relax. I mean;

You will find many beautiful natural views in it, such as Wanshou Hill and Xianzi Lake. Those landscapes change with the seasons. On the weekends, we can appreciate the views there to relieve the stress from study or work deadlines.

Second, the traffic system around that park is rather excellent. For example, there are many subway stations and bus stops near the gate of it. We can go there easily.

Third, all kinds of sports facilities have been built in the park, like the badminton field and jogging track. Therefore, it is the very place to do exercises in the morning or after dinner, which can help the public strengthen their muscles and improve their immune system.

Generally speaking, that is why I want to describe this park to you.

Part 3

(1). Are there many tall buildings in china?

It depends.

It is easier to see more tall buildings in commercial cities, like BEIJING, SHANGHAI and so on. Because big cities have denser populations. In order to meet the needs of more people, the government has to build as many as high-rise buildings.

However, in the countryside, small flats are more common due to the lower house price.

(2). Do old people and young people in China have the same attitudes towards old buildings?

I don't know what the old people think of traditional architecture, but most young Chinese think old buildings should be protected and saved. Because today's post-80s and post-90s have all received higher education, they all know the importance of traditional architecture.

(3). Is it important to preserve old buildings? And Why?

Sure, it is rather important.

Classical architecture is the soul of a nation. Preserving old buildings allows us to better explore the ancient culture and customs.

Classical architecture is the crystallization of ancient wisdom. By exploring old buildings, we can also learn about our Chinese history and investigate some excellent techniques of traditional buildings.

✓ An ideal house

1) Where the house would be located

I hope my ideal house can be located next to the Summer Palace. It is the biggest royal garden of China. Therefore, I can enjoy the 横轴 2 of the Summer Palace from my window every day.

2) What it would look like

That house had better have three floors, I can set the third floor as my private garden and plant the flowers I like. I think it would be greater if the second floor of the house had 5 bedrooms. I can take my parents and grandparents to live with me.

3) Why you think it would be your ideal house

Oh, I almost forgot to mention it. [捂嘴轻笑]

It would be better if there were some delicious restaurants in the community. I'm a foodie, so that house will meet my desire.

I hope there will be a lot of sports equipment in the community, such as basketball courts, badminton fields and so on, so that every day after work, I can do various sports to strengthen my muscle and enhance my coordination.

I also hope that the government can build many subway stations and bus stops at the gate of the community. In this way, it will be more convenient to travel.

Generally, that's why I want to have such a house

2) Which teacher did you like best

3) What you've learned there

4) What impressed you most about this school

The school I'd like to describe is called Sunshine primary school, which is located in the center of my hometown.

Sunshine has a long history of about 30 years, and it is always the best primary school in that place.

At that time, I loved my Chinese teacher MR. Wang most. He was a thirty-year-old handsome man with deep eyes and good figure. What's more, Mr. Wang was also a warm-hearted and patient teacher.

In that school, in addition to learning a lot of useful academic knowledge, my teachers also taught me how to be a good person. They told me how to be polite, how to respect others, how to make friends with peers, and so on. All of these provided me with a lot of support for my future development.

[语法提示: in addition to 表示除了什么之外还... 用于段落句首,或句中;To 为介词。注意区分 in addition, 这表示并且。]

The school impressed me for many reasons.

✓ P3

1. What kinds of schools are there in China?

[national schools, private schools, international schools]

2. What do think is the most important, primary education, secondary education or college education?

All

Primary education can help children generate good habits of learning & help them build a positive personal value and world value

Secondary education is a necessary process for kids to grasp professional knowledge to help them get into further education

College education can provide students with some useful skills about work.

3. Do you think teachers are more strict now?

It depends on different teachers.

Due to the fierce competition, people now have to study harder than before if they want to get a good position in the future. Therefore, some teachers will assign more homework in class and let students finish it.

However,

Many extreme parents think it is wrong for teachers to spank students occasionally in school, which will lead to many teachers afraid to discipline their students.

✓ A place where you love to read or write

1) Where it is

2) How often you go there

3) Who you would like to go with

4) Why you love to read or write there

The place I'd like to describe is a library called Sunshine, which is located in the central park of my city. The history of this place can be traced back to about 100 years ago. And it is the largest library in my province.

I go there very frequently, about 3 times per week, because I need to 横轴 10. You know, In china, 10why.

Normally, I'd like to go there with my best friend Peter. He is a knowledgeable man who has received the offer from Cambridge university. Now, he is about 20 years old. In my eyes, Peter is a handsome boy with deep eyes and good figure.

There are many reasons why I love to read or write there, and the most obvious one is that 人 the librarians [laɪˈbreəriən] there are very obliging. For example, whenever I want to look up some books, they would like to give me a hand without hesitation. Therefore, I can get what I need quickly in that place.

Besides, they don't allow the public to speak loudly, so I can concentrate more on my study in that place.

风 as what I said before, this library is situated in the central park. Hence, I can appreciate the lake and hills through the window of the library to relieve the pressure from study.

✓ P3

1. Why do many children write worse than they read?

Actually, writing is harder than reading. We have to admit that.

Reading requires a person to have strong comprehension and wide vocabulary;

However,

If you want to write well, you not only have to remember and recite numerous words, but also have to own creativity and logical thinking.

✓ A place you visited that is full of colors

The place I'd like to describe is Tianzhen, a poetic and picturesque city located in the south of China. Oh, forgot to say, the history of it can be traced back to about 1000 years ago.

I visited this place about 2 months ago because I happened to have a 10-day holiday at that time.

It's hard to say how many colours that I saw because I was deeply attracted by the dazzling ['dæzlɪŋ] array [ə'reɪ] 琳琅满目的 of foods and multi-coloured sceneries of the place.

As for my feeling, I think it is the paradise on earth.

Along the city's beaches, you can see the deep sea aligned with the light blue sky, and occasionally fly over a few gray seagulls ['si:gʌl], which forms a wonderful picture.

城市的海滩边，深邃的大海与湛蓝的天空连成一线，偶尔飞过几只灰色的海鸥，构成了一幅美妙画卷。

The majority of Chinese people would like to choose bright colours to decorate their homes, such as bright blue, pink and white, because when the sunlight is not enough, especially in winter, these colours can make the house look brighter and warmer.

2. What kind of colour does advertisement often use?

It depends.

For food advertisements, directors usually choose colours like yellow or red, because they can arouse people's appetite.

However,

For cosmetics advertisements, directors are more likely to choose simple colours, such as grey or white, which will make people feel very clean and refreshing visually. Therefore, they will buy the products more.

The person I'd like to describe is my grandma, who used to be a doctor. And now, she is about 80 years old, but in my eyes, she is still so gorgeous and graceful with a pair of impressive eyes.

We may do a lot of things we like together, including selfie, cooking, watching movies and so on.

My grandma is an obliging lady who often helps those people who are in need. Besides, she always donates money to support the impoverished people in remote areas.

When I was a kid, she took care of me a lot because my parents were so busy at that time. So, my grandma is the most familiar family to me until now.

I love to spend time with her for many reasons,

1st, 【学】 she has read a lot of books, such as "The dream of red mansions", "Pride and Prejudice", and so on. Therefore, every time I get in academic trouble, especially some questions that related to literature, I'd like to ask her for help.

1. what are the benefits and drawbacks of living together with family?

Talking about benefits, you will not feel lonely because families can accompany you every day. You can discuss the household or the trouble you have encountered. I think the old generation can give you some help because of their richer life experience.

Moreover, they can share your life burden because your parents or grandparents can cook for you or do laundry for you.

However, they are wordy, and they love to interrupt your private life, so you may feel very exhausted in breathing. What's more, you and your family may have different life style, which means that you cannot do something you like at night, such as singing or throwing a party.

2. How many generations in a family in China?

For most families, there are usually two generations, parents and children. but recent figures show that the number of people living alone is increasing, because 如上题。

Of course, there are a small percentage of families have three or even four generations, because the young need to take care of their old parents or they are busy that their parents need to help look after their kids.

3. What are the differences between a father taking care of a baby and a mother taking care of a baby?

Normally, women are more careful, so they can take care of their babies very well in the field of physical health. For example, they keep feeding their babies to keep them from getting hungry. (keep from 避免)

Besides, women have richer emotions, so they will read bedtime fairy tales, such as snow-white, to cultivate their literature and emotions.

However, men are relatively calm, so they are better at developing their babies' independence. For example, when their child falls down, they would not just pick him/her up. Instead, they are more likely to encourage the babe to stand up on their own.

✓ A person who taught you sth. important

✓ P3

1. When do you think it's best to start school?

Around 5 I guess. Under that age, children are too young to protect themselves, so they are easy to be hurt by senior students. Besides, they cannot control their behavior, especially cannot make themselves sit in the classroom for more than one hour.

However, if they get too old, they will lose the best time to development good habits and generate positive personal values.

2. Who do you think is easier to learn a new skill, the old or the young?

Normally, the answer should be the young. They have better memories so they can remember things quicker than the old. In addition, they are easier to accept new stuff than the old. For example, young people often download some applications and look up videos on the websites to help them learn a new thing better.

However, the old can spend more in learning because they have retired. And they are more patient than the young, so they can concentrate more on the study.

Therefore, it is hard to judge.

3. What are the qualities of a good teacher?

1st, a good teacher should be responsible and patient. Different students have different interests in different fields, so teachers should not push them to learn sth. they don't like. However, if the subject is related to students' future, teachers need to try their best to encourage those naughty students rekindle the flame for study.

2nd, a good teacher should also be positive and knowledgeable. If not, the students might be misguided.

1. What news does China usually report?

We can see nearly all kinds of news in China, including the stars we love, what constructions will be built, what happened in other countries, and even the disasters that some areas are suffering.

2. What kind of people do you think will get covered in the news?

1st, popular stars will be reported in the news, such as Xiaozhan and Yangmi, because journalists can get a lot of clicks and profits by reporting their gossip.

2nd, scientists, teachers, doctors, police officers who have contributed to the country are also reported. The government hopes such stories and reports can encourage young people to be positive. For example, Tu youyou, the discoverer of artemisinin [ati'misailin], is widely reported across the country because her work could save hundreds of millions of people.

3. Are there many foreigners in Chinese news?

Sure, in many media and websites, such as China Daily and People's Daily, we can see all kinds of news about different countries. They will cover interesting foreign news to let you know the funny world. For example, once a website reported that an Australian resident stepped forward to save his dog from being beaten by a kangaroo. Also, they will introduce some international news, including politics, military, business, stocks and so on.

4. What are the differences between the news of the past and the news today?

In my opinion, there is no big difference between the news of the past and today. I think the main difference lies in the way of watching the news. With the development of technology, now, it is hard to see newspapers. People are more likely to download some applications like Tiktok and Weibo to see the news in video form, which is more direct and vivid.

✓ Describe a performance

- 1) What it is
- 2) Who you enjoyed it with
- 3) When and where you enjoyed it
- 4) Why did you enjoy it

The performance I'd like to describe is a play called Tangled, which comes from a famous fairy tale written by Brothers Grimm. The director of that play is named Li Qiang, an outstanding artist in China.

I enjoyed the performance with my friend John + 职年外

And we enjoyed it last summer in the National Theatre, which is located in the north area of Beijing. The Centre resembles a spaceship, giving it a distinctly alien presence in the heart of Beijing. And this building was built about 30 years ago.

I enjoyed the performances for many reasons,

1st, its plot is very touching and impressive. It is a story about a lost princess named Rapunzel, who has a head of long golden hair. And her hair owns the magic that can heal illness and decay 衰败[dǎi'kèi]. That is why was robbed by a witch. Until one day, a prince came across and found out the secret between them. Finally, he saved the life of Rapunzel.

2nd, this performance encouraged me a lot, since it tells me that no matter how your heart is grieving, if you keep on believing, the dream that you wish will come true. Rapunzel, as a lost princess, eventually won the mission because of her courage and brilliance. I really should learn her attitude of solving problems.

More importantly, the back ground music of this performance is my favourite type. So, I felt rather relaxed and delighted when I was watching it. I mean; Its gentle melody and attractive tune took me into a wonderful world and helped me forget trouble in real life.

✓ P3

1. Is there any special cultural performance in China?

Yes. Every year, we can enjoy the classic Shaoxing opera "A dream of red mansions" in the National Grand Theatre, which is a kind of Chinese traditional art performance that is similar to Peking opera but popular in the east of China. It describes the blossom and decay of a great family in ancient China, like the Downton Abbey.

2. Should the government invest money to support them?

Yes, they are a symbol of a national history, and which can also help us remember our nation's past. I mean; they are priceless. Moreover, with the change of young people's aesthetics, people are more likely to listen to stars' concerts. As a result, the income of some classical programs is quite limited. Apparently, the government should invest in them and support them.

3. Do you think cultural performances should be free or paid for if they are supported by the government?

Although free performances can attract more audience and help spread that culture, it is not good for their further development. People never value what they get easily. I read a particularly interesting piece of news last year. It reported that a great violinist spent a morning playing at that gate of the subway, but monitor showed only two people stopped to watch him. A paid performance may not attract a large audience, but at least people will put their hearts into it.

4. What are the differences between watching a show live and watching it on TV?

In the scene, you can feel the warm atmosphere. You can also interact with your favourite actors and take photos with them after the performance. Bu the way, it's a good chance to make friends with people who have the same hobbies as you. I mean; you can discuss together, and maybe you will get a lot after that.

However, watching on TV cannot do the things what I said before, but it is freer. You can lie on the sofa, wear what you like and enjoy a cup of tea when you are watching. I learned that you need to wear uniforms to watch some very serious programs, such as the ballet Swan Lake.

✓ An article about health you read on a magazine

- 2) Where you read it

- 4) how you feel about it

the article I'd like to describe is named "how to be forever 18", which was reported on "LIFE", a popular magazine in China. Yes, indeed, I was attracted by its amazing title – forever 18.

I read this article about 6 months ago. On that day, I was lying on my deck chair, enjoying a nice afternoon tea. And suddenly, this article caught my attention.

I think that article is pretty useful.

1st, it tells us that we should eat an apple after the breakfast every day, because apple is full of vitamins, fibre and minerals that can help us reduce the risk of getting diseases, such as obesity and high blood pressure.

2nd, the article also suggests us go for a run in the community after dinner, because it is a good way to lose weight. Doing exercises will work one's muscle and burn one's calories. But we should not do that in the morning, because there's actually a lot of carbon dioxide in the air in the morning.

3rd, "we'd better watch some comedies or listen to some light music when we are upset and annoyed," the author of that paper said. Their gentle melody and attractive plot can take us into a fantastic world to help us forget trouble in real life.

I'm trying to stick to these methods every day now, and I think they are very effective.

1. What are the differences between people communicate with each other in the past and today?

With the development of technology, a lot of high-tech devices have been invented to facilitate our life. Now, people can use mobile phones to have a conversation with people in a far place. But in the past, we could only meet face to face.

Moreover, even today's old people have learned how to use applications like Whatsapp or Wechat to have a video with their kids in other countries. In the past, people usually sent letters or postcards to say they are safe.

2. Does the development of technology have a negative impact on communication?

Now, there is a new phenomenon called social phobia, which means that a lot of people may afraid of communicating with others face to face. They don't even want to talk on the phone. After getting used to the way you communicate on social media, people are no longer comfortable with who they are when they take off their masks. In Japan, more than 40 percent of middle-aged men are willing to stay single. They would rather spend a lot of time playing games and watching animations than socializing.

Tangled is a 2010 American 3D computer-animated musical adventure film produced by Walt Disney Animation Studios and released by Walt Disney Pictures. It was created from the German fairy tale "Rapunzel" in the collection of folk tales published by the Brothers Grimm.

I watched it about 6 months ago, and this movie was recommended by my good friend Peter to help me practice English.

This film is about a lost princess named Rapunzel, who has a head of long golden hair. And her hair owns the magic that can heal illness and decay 衰败[di'keɪ]. That is why was robbed by a witch. Until one day, a prince came across and found out the secret between them. Finally, he saved the life of Rapunzel.

I like it so much because

First, I love Rapunzel, actually, she is my role model. In that movie, the character of Rapunzel is so distinct. She is brave, strong and energetic. Even though she is locked in witch's high tower, she insists on finding ways to go out.

Second, this film encouraged me a lot, since it tells me that no matter how your heart is grieving, if you keep on believing, the dream that you wish will come true. Rapunzel, as a lost princess, eventually won the mission because of her courage and brilliance. I really should learn her attitude of solving problems.

More importantly, the back ground music of this movie is my favourite type. So, I felt rather relaxed and delighted when I was watching this movie. I mean; Its gentle melody and attractive tune took me into a wonderful world and helped me forget trouble in real life.

You see, there is no reason for me to dislike it.

1. Is it fair that movie stars earn a lot of money?
2. Why movie stars' personal lives being exposed to the public?

Fans will be curious about their private life off screen. In order to get more profits, many reporters would like to secretly take pictures of the stars personal lives and post them on the social media to achieve clicks.

Moreover, when their new movies are about to be released, some of the main characters will expose their private lives which are not so important and negative. This behavior can help them get more attention.

3. Should celebrities control their behavior in their lives?

Stars' private lives are always under the scrutiny of the media, so if they do something inappropriate, it may affect their whole career.

Besides, the way they act, dress and talk can influence many trends, especially for teenagers, who like to imitate the behavior of stars.

The product I'd like to tell you is an AI robot named Tmall JINGLING developed by company ALIBABA. We also call it as Tmall Fairy. This product was activated in 2017, and made its first public appearance as the cat.

I bought it in a huge shopping center called TIANZHEN, which is located in the city center of my hometown. And this place was built about 10 years ago. TIANMAO fairy is very cute, with only 10 centimeters high.

It was difficult to use because I am a high-tech freshman. First of all, I needed to connect the robot to the internet and set the correct language mode, which took me at least one hour with the help of specification. OMG, how stupid I was.

After that, I was required to download various types of documents to enrich its database.

What annoyed me most is that I have to call its name before every conversation and command. As a result, you'll hear me calling Tmall fairy, Tmall fairy? Tmall fairy! all afternoon. Oh, no!

So, now, I almost gave it up. I put it in a place that I would seldom come, and I rarely talk to it or use it to look up the information I need. Therefore, I think AI still needs a long time to develop.

1. What should companies do if they design sth. that's hard to use?

1st, the company should try its best to find out the reason why that product is hard to use, improve its function and change its design.

The uniform I'd like to describe is actually not a typical western suit with jacket and trousers, it's the Tangzhuang, a kind of Chinese traditional formal clothes that people may wear on special occasions, such as wedding ceremony and spring festival party.

The history of Tangzhuang can be traced back to about 300 years ago, and can largely represent the culture and customs of ancient China. My Chinese style uniform is a large – sized one, and the colour is yellow. It contains 2 long sleeves and a straight collar. On it, you can also see a pattern that is similar to the Chinese dragon. What's the most interesting thing is that presidents of Russia and the US had worn tangzhuang at the 2001 APEC(Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation 可以直接 APEC) Summit in Shanghai.

Last spring, I wore it to attend my best friend's wedding ceremony in Beijing. Since she and her husband had a traditional Chinese wedding, I think this dress can express my blessing and respect to them. Indeed, there were very happy.

【寓意】As what I said before, there is a pattern on that clothes, and which is similar to the Chinese dragon. Here's the thing. It symbolizes prosperity and longevity in our traditional culture. So, they all thought this uniform would bring them good fortune.

If I have the chance to attend similar occasions, I would like to wear my tangzhuang again.

Thank you.

4) Why you liked to play it

The toy I'd like to describe was a set of blocks. When I was a kid, I always used hundreds of colorful blocks to construct various buildings, handicrafts or characters. Sometimes, I also gave some to my friends as a precious gift. Yeah, you know. After all, it was a work of art to some extent.

I played it when I was in primary school and middle school. At that time, I often participated in building blocks competitions.

I loved to play it because 1st, it was a birthday gift sent by my grandma when I was 10 years old. And she was the most familiar family to me, because she took care of me a lot at that time. So, at that time, every time I played those blocks, they could remind me of the sweet times that I enjoyed before.

2nd, it was a little difficult actually. As a kid, my imagination was limited, and in order to finish different tasks, I needed to imagine so many pictures to match my inner thoughts. However, because of this, playing that toy improved my art appreciation ability.

More importantly, this toy improved my sense of teamwork. Because if you want to make a complex model, you have to cooperate with your partners. For example, one person has to sort the blocks according to different colours, and another one has to put them together.

✓ P3

1. What are the differences between the toys of today and those in the past?

With the development of the technology, today's toys are normally wiser. I mean; people can use some remote controls or download applications to operate them.

What's more,

Now, toys are generally more gorgeous and colourful, because many manufacturers have more money to invest in building new models thanks to the economy boost.

2. Do you think parents should limit the time their children play games?

3. Children have a trend of comparing things that they have or don't have with others, is that a good thing?

It has pros and cons.

For the benefits, comparison can stimulate them to study harder in order to get what they want. I mean; parents can set sth. they like to be a reward for their achievements.

As for the drawbacks, this may misguide children. They are likely to form the mindset of money worship.

What's more, their parents work burden will also be increased a lot.

I made it for my best friend Peter as his 20th birthday gift. He is a handsome with deep eyes, manly nose and good figure.

The diameter of the Sun-cake that I made was about 10cm, and the shape was round. Its colour was golden, which makes the cake look like the sun. On it, there was a pattern similar to the Chinese dragon.

I prepared it for a long time because I am not good at making pastry. I mean; it took me hours just to mix and ferment. [fə ˈment]

Besides, sun-cake is normally filled with nuts, including walnut and peanut. Therefore, I also spent much time in crushing [krʌʃ] 碾压 nuts.

2. Why is it hard to choose gifts?

First, we need to consider whether others like it or not; second, we have to ensure it is useful. And more importantly, those gifts with both good appearance and practical functions are very expensive.

So, it's really hard to get a good deal.

In the center of the picture, we can see the sun just leaping out of the sea, shining softly. On the left side, the sea of clouds adds mystery to the picture.

I enlarged the photo twice and placed it in our living room.

2 months ago, when I was travelling in Huangshan, I was deeply attracted by the impressive scenery of the sunrise and sea clouds there, then I decided to take a photo to save the landscape as my good memory.

This is the best photo I've ever taken. Whenever I see this photo, it always reminds me of the unforgettable trip I had with my family in Huangshan. The peculiarly-shaped [pɪ'kju:liəli] 奇特造型的 peaks, pine trees and hot springs, all of these seemed to be still vivid in my mind.

What's more, on the right is a picture of me and my ex boyfriend/girlfriend. The trip in Huangshan was our last travel together, and this photo is the only one I left. Although we have broken up, he still left me a lot of happiness. So, this picture is more like a witness of our past love.

It's an effective way to increase their confidence, because they will be braver to show their talent in front of the public.

However, if not, we shouldn't push them, because which will upset them.

2. Do Chinese people like to visit art galleries?

3. What are the advantages and disadvantages of taking photos with a mobile phone?

2. What kind of weather do Chinese people like?

It's hard to say.

Some people love rainy days, so they live in the south of China. That kind of climate helps crops grow faster and makes girls' skin look better.

✓ P3

1. Do you think people should apologize for both big issues and small issues?

I don't think it should be determined according to the importance of issues. no matter how small it is, we should all say sorry to show our politeness and respect to others. What seems small to you may not as the same to others. For example, if you accidentally broke someone's pencil and thought it was very small because a pencil only costs 1 yuan, but what if it was a birthday present from his/her grandma?

2. Should people hide their anger?

It depends.

In the public areas or on some important meetings, if you lose your temper and there are particularly serious consequences, such as losing your job or affecting others, I think you should hide your anger.

However, when you are alone, or with your good friends and family, you can talk to them about your anger. They will comfort you.

3. Why is it so hard for someone to apologize?

In the first case, many people have not been well educated since childhood, so they have no sense of apologizing.

On the other hand, some people take it for granted (理所当然的) that they have done sth. wrong, or they think their dignity is greater than everything else. People like that cannot find friends, I guess.

The competition required all participants to be divided into hundreds of groups to design and improve on the city's current problems. Therefore, Peter and I joined in new team with other three boys who come from a same dormitory.

We divided the work quickly. My friend peter and I were responsible to investigate some environmental problems and infrastructure problems in the city. And three of them needed to propose and design the ways to solve related issues.

Finally, we decided to design a park to facilitate citizens' life, and which helped us achieve the first place. We were so proud of that.

The plan says that the park should be built in the center of the city that would be more convenient for nearly all people. In order to improve the ways that people can choose to go to the place, there will also be two subway stations and five bus stops planned at the gate of the park.

Moreover, we also suggested building a quiet track and lots of exercise equipment in that park, such as badminton field and basketball court, so that we can do all kinds of sports after work or study every day. That will also help us lose weight, because doing exercises can work the muscle and burn our calories.

This cooperation experience was particularly good, because every member of the team tried to cooperate with each other warmly and honestly.

✓ P3

1. Do you think teamwork is important?

Sure. If you want to fulfill some complicated achievements, like the champion of a basketball competition, you need to learn how to cooperate with others. I don't think even Yaoming can win the Olympics with 4 Taylor swift.

What's more, learning how to work with others can also help you find more friends. Accomplishing sth. important and difficult together is an effective way to enhance friendship. As the saying goes, a friend in need is a friend indeed. (习语: 患难见真情)

2. Do you think kids with siblings work better as a team than kids without siblings?

Maybe.

Kids with siblings would have more chances to work with others when they were young. I mean; they constructed Lego together and played balloon war with neighbours. So, they have more experience with how to work with others.

3. What are the good qualities that a successful teamwork member should have?

I think the most important quality that a good player should have is modesty. Willing to help others, this team can better highlight its strength. If everyone only emphasizes their own limelight, then the team will fall apart. Second, a good team member should also be positive. We should not slack off just because we don't play an important role in the team.

- 1) What is the importance of friends?
- 2) Do you prefer spending time with friends or family?
- 3) Is it easier to find close friends or a lot of common friends?

For students, I think it is easier to find a lot of common friends, because schools often organize all kind of activities that you can get to know many new strangers by taking part in them. Also, you can play with your classmates and roommates.

However, for people who work, most of the people they see every day are colleagues who compete with them. What's more, they don't have enough time to socialize because of the heavy pressure. You know, being a social butterfly is a waste of time.

✓ An occasion you remember about meeting someone for the first time

Last spring festival, my older sister Anna celebrated a party in her house and invited a lot of colleagues to come. Oh, forgot to say, Spring festival is the most important holiday in china, as well as, the longest one.

Her house is located in the city center of my hometown. It was built about 10 years ago, and which has two living rooms and four bedrooms. In front of the gate, you can see a huge private garden decorated by various plants, and that's the place where we enjoyed the party.

It was the first time I saw her colleague John, a very handsome man about 30 years old. He owns deep eyes, manly nose, and good figure.

It was a memorable experience because the person impressed me a lot on that party.

First, in addition to his excellent appearance, he is a man of many talents. I mean; he can play many types of musical instruments, including piano, violin and guitar. On that party, he gave some performances to amuse us. And I thought he was the most handsome man in the world when he was singing on the stage.

Second, we had a short conversation together, and I learned that he graduated from Cambridge university about 5 years ago. He gave me a lot of useful suggestions about how to improve IELTS and how to choose the universities in the UK.

- 3) Who you had it with
- 4) Why it was boring

2 years ago, I was planning to learn Japanese because 日语原因. And luckily, my neighbor peter is a popular Japanese teacher, and he gave me some useful suggestions about that. However, the process of learning that language was really boring.

At that time, peter was a 25-year-old handsome man with deep eyes, manly nose and good figure. Actually, a lot of girls in my neighbourhood wanted him to be their boyfriend.

It was a boring experience because Japanese is a difficult language to learn. I mean; 难逻辑. Although he told me that 横轴 6 逻辑, I gave it up.

In the process of learning, in addition to his teaching, I tried many other ways to learn it well, 日语学习. However, they were useless.

Therefore, I think talent is really important for a person to learn sth. new.

✓ P3

1. What kind of work do you think is boring?

There are a lot.

Many civil works are boring, such as secretaries, because they have to repeat the same thing day by day and year after year. Besides, their work lacks creativity, so it can be boring.

In addition, waitressing is also boring, because it's really hard for them to get a promotion. They feel hopeless about the future.

2. They are boring, but why are so many people willing to do them?

First of all, that kind of job is normally easier to get. I mean; you do not need to have a high degree background, nor do you need to have a strong comprehensive ability.

Second, you don't have to work late every day, as well as, worry about competing with too many people.

3. Do you think these jobs will be replaced by robots in the future?

Yes. In china, there is a famous hot pot business named HAIDILAO. Many of the restaurants group's stores are already using robots to deliver food and provide service. More importantly, those restaurants have very low error rates and are very popular.

✓ An experience of enjoying an indoor game

- 1) When you enjoyed it
- 2) What it was
- 3) Who you enjoyed it with
- 4) Why you enjoyed it

The game I'd like to describe is building blocks. When I was a kid, I always used hundreds of colorful blocks to construct various buildings, handicrafts or characters. Sometimes, I also gave some to my friends as a precious gift. Yeah, you know. After all, it was a work of art to some extent.

I played it when I was in primary school and middle school. At that time, I often participated in building blocks competitions.

And I always played it with my grandma, who is the person took care of me a lot when i was kid since my parents were so busy with business.

It was a little difficult actually. As a kid, my imagination was limited, and in order to finish different tasks, I needed to imagine so many pictures to match my inner thoughts. However, in this aspect, it was also an effective way to improve my art appreciation ability.

Moreover, this game improved my concentration. A small mistake or omission 遗漏 in building blocks can cause the failure. Hence, I had to do that meticulously [məˈtɪkjələsli]一丝不苟地.

More importantly, this activity improved my sense of teamwork. Because if you want to make a complex model, you have to cooperate with your partners. For example, one person has to sort the blocks according to different colours, and another one has to put them together.

✓ P3

1. What characteristics do you think a team leader should have?

A good team manger should have the ability to identify the capabilities of each team member. Only in this way, can the team's overall cooperation ability be effectively integrated, to maximize the effectiveness of the team.

What's more, good communication skills are also very important, because there are often many conflicts and contradictions between members, at which time the manager needs to play a regulating role.

2. What indoor games do children play these days?

Boys: electronic games on the Ipad.

Girls: do role-play with dolls + because every girl dreams to be a princess or a queen.

3. Why children play teamwork games?

Make friends

Get happiness by conquering others

✓ A time you lied to someone

- 2) Who you lied to
- 3) What you said & Why did you lie
- 4) How you felt about that

6 months ago, my friend Peter and I planned to travel to Hangzhou together. + 名位 title 历介绍 hz. However, as I was not feeling well before leaving, I lied to him and cancelled the plan.

Peter is one of my best friends, and we are classmates now. he is about 20 years old. In my eyes, Peter is a handsome with deep eyes, manly nose and good figure.

I told him that I had been asked by my tutor to write two papers to submit. I thought that if I told him directly that I didn't want to go because of the health, he wouldn't be able to accept that. I mean; that was too subjective.

Although we finally canceled the plan, I still feel rather guilty for him. Because later, he also helped me look up relevant materials, and accompanied me to write articles in the library. I was also very embarrassed, because everything was fake, and I had to think of a topic to write. I think I may never lie like this again.

✓ P3

1. Why do people lie?

People lie about all sorts of things. For example, many parents in poor families will tell their children that they are full to save food for them. Besides, in order to attract people they are dating, a lot of people will lie to each other when they are meeting for the first time that they have a lot of advantages

2. Who is more likely to lie, children or adults?

It's hard to judge. Children lie because they are afraid their parents will find out what they have done wrong. For example, when their test scores are particularly low, they will modify their own data.

Adults lie because of profits. For example, in an interview, job seekers will always exaggerate their abilities to get the interviewer's approval.

The day after his arrival, I felt particularly sleepy because I had looked up data about my essay the night before. I mean; at that time, I was required to submit my paper within one weekend, so I worked all day long.

However, it was the first time for him to visit my hometown, and I hope to give him an unforgettable trip. Therefore, I needed to stay awake.

Then, I bought a cup of espresso to refresh myself. However, when we came to the west lake, the most gorgeous an famous landscape in my city, I felt very dizzy. I had no idea, so I took him to a restaurant to taste some local mouth-watering cuisines. And I took advantage of that time to take a nap. It was an embarrassing experience, but fortunately, Peter felt very happy.

- 4) Why do you think it is successful

The successful small company I'd like to describe is a Japanese language training school in my city named Sakura, which is located in the city center. It was built about 10 years ago, and up to now, the school has three branches.

名职年外

I got to know the company about 3 years ago, because 日语原因, and I signed up for a course at this school.

It is successful for many reasons,

1st, teachers in this school are so obliging and patient. For example, if you get in academic trouble, they would like to give you a hand immediately. Moreover, they often organize all kinds of groups activities to help you study better, such as guessing words game. So, it's very exciting to study there;

2nd, they have taught many excellent students in the field of learning Japanese. I mean; they have good reputation. I am one of their students, and I found that they are very professional, because they will test your problems and tell you the difficult points. For example, they said that 难逻辑第一部分 (把 always forgot 改成 might forget) . After that, they will set a motto for you, like 横轴六逻辑/不放弃逻辑. More importantly, their learning methods are quite useful. They will give you some suggestions of learning Japanese, 日语学习.

So, Sakura is the most popular and successful Japanese school in my hometown.

1. What do you think are the applications of technology in the catering industry?

Now, many restaurants in metropolises of China have begun to use AI robots as waiters. They have a clear division of labour. Some of them are responsible for meeting customers, and others can deliver food.

Besides, it's hard to see paper menus anymore, and many stores are using ipads to order food for customers. Compared to the paper one, the iPad menu is green and lively, as all dishes can be shown in picture.

2. What new industries do you know?

The new industry I'd like to describe is called clothing organizer, which is very popular in recent years in commercial cities, like Beijing or Shanghai. They mainly go to some busy workers' home to tidy up their clothes, accessories, and so on. And they charge between 100 and 200 yuan per hour.

Compared to dustman, this industry is not too tired. So, a lot of people love to do that.

3. What qualities should a successful businessman own?

Be honest. + if not + the company cannot build close relationship and connection with old customers + not good for long-term development

Generous + only when employees are happy, will they be willing to create more value for you.

Creative + if they cannot catch the pace of the times and predict the changes in people's needs, enterprises will be easily eliminated, like Nokia.

I got to the job about 3 years ago, because I tried to learn this language at that time. I mean; 日语原因. So, I attempted many ways, including 日语学习.

The job requires the person to speak Japanese very well, but here is the thing. It is rather difficult and boring, because 难逻辑. Although my teacher told me that 不放弃逻辑, I still gave it up later.

Besides, being a teacher should be very patient. For example, when students get in academic trouble, you should give him/her a hand as soon as possible. However, I am a very edgy person, so I think I cannot do that job well.

✓ P3

1. What do young people like to do?

It depends.

Some young people like to work for the government, because that kind of work is more stable and easy although the salary will not be so high. They don't have to worry about getting laid off suddenly or working overtime.

However, there are still a large number of people who like to work in enterprises, because they can earn more money and get higher bonus to feed a family. In some large enterprises, such as Alibaba and Tencent, young people can learn many useful skills to enrich themselves.

2. Do people in your country like to work in other cities?

For those who live in remote areas, they are more likely to work in big cities, such as ~, because they want better educational resources for their offspring, and they want to bring new life experiences for their parents. In this country, every Chinese has a strong concept of family. And in many cases, we work not only for ourselves, but also for our families.

3. which one do you think is more important for the job, interest or income?

If you need to raise a babe and you are poor, I think income is much more important than interest. The premise of chasing dream is to live healthily. What's the use of interest when your life cannot be guaranteed?

however, if you come from an ordinary family, I think interest is still very important, because we cannot just look at the moment, interest can make you have more achievements in the industry, develop more new ideas to create value.

4. Do you think technology and machines will replace human labor?

Some traditional jobs might be replaced + e.g. (dustmen, waiters, and bank tellers), because the work they need to do is relatively simpler.

However, when it comes to some professional jobs, like doctors, you, teachers and so on, they cannot be replaced by the robot, because we need to have emotional conversations with them, and those jobs are full of creativity.

New Guinea is a vast island nestled close to the continental landmass of Australia. As we move south and east, to smaller, more distant islands, the wildlife becomes even more unusual. So, today, I will introduce a kind of bird in a small place of that area named New Caledonia.

It has wings, but it can't fly. It is the Kagu. It's hard to know what the kagu is related to, a heron, a rail, or maybe a pigeon. Measuring 50 cm in length, Kagu has pale grey plumage ['plu:midʒ] 灰白的羽毛 and bright red legs. Its 'nasal ['neɪzl] corns' 喙和口鼻那一圈 are a unique feature not shared with any other bird.

I saw them on the helicopter when I was travelling in Australia last year, and I threw some worms into them from the sky with the guidance of the forest manager.

Kagu families stick together, with young from previous years helping to declare the family territory. I mean; all intruders will be chased away.

Kagus are interesting as well. When it comes to the breeding season, males will rekindle the flame with their life-long partners. They will dance and sing bad songs 【笑】 to attract the attention of females.

Their wings are too weak to get them airborne, but why fly when all the food you 【吞音】 need is on the ground? However, dad's wings still have a use – to protect newly hatched chicks. Wings can help him look big and intimidating.

This creature is something I haven't seen in China, so that is why I want to share it.

1. Do you think animals are important to human life?

Sure.

Pets can accompany us when we are lonely. Actually, they are more likely to be our friends or family, not just animals.

Moreover, some dogs can be trained to guide the blind or protect the house. I mean; they can work for humans.

More importantly, some wise animals can also be taught to search the survivors in some disasters, like earthquake.

1. Do Chinese people like to set goals?

Some of them like, because goals can improve our study or work efficiency. You will know what you should do if you want to achieve your goals.

However, nowadays, many young people don't set goals any more. They think that plans cannot keep up with changes. And life is interesting when it is full of unknowns.

2. What life goals do people set? (not work goals)

The most common goal is to lose weight. With the development of economy, people have solved the problem of food and clothing, so people put more energy on the physical health and appearance management.

And college students often set goals to save money to buy expensive items to fulfill their first dream, like a Chanel bag.

Huangshan is a mountain range in southern Anhui province in eastern China. This area is well known for its scenery, sunsets, sunrises, pine trees, hot springs and views of the clouds from above. And this place offered us a wonderful sky that we had never seen before.

在我们登上黄山的次日清晨，约莫凌晨 5 点，清脆的鸟鸣声唤醒了熟睡的观景人。在山巅之上，太阳刚刚突破海平面缓缓升起。不像平日里见到的那般刺眼，日出的太阳散发着柔和与温暖的光芒。云层此起彼伏，变化莫测，构成了黄山云海，辉映着日出的光芒，与山上的怪石和造型各异的松木构成了一幅旷世绝伦的美妙画卷。倘若是一幅人间真品，即便是最普通的画师造就，也值千金。

Around 5 am in the morning after we climbed the mount Huangshan, the melodious sound of birds woke up the sleeping travelers. At the top, the sun had just risen above sea level. Unlike the blinding light we usually see, the rising sun shone softly and warmly. The mountaintops also offered views of the clouds from above, known as the "Sea of Clouds" or "Huangshan Sea" because of the cloud's resemblance [rɪˈzembəns]相似 n. to an ocean.
