序

九阙烟尘埃，
老木沧波息，
山峦峰崖断垣处，
思旧部，念将来，
披霓裳，戴星彩，
斩雅思九续千秋万代！

前言

在创造这首诗的时候是希望这本讲义能够帮助尽可能多的同学在 2019 年即将结束之际能够圆满的自己的梦想，顺利出国。正好当时有很多同学都跟我聊了聊自己家里的情况和对未来的恐惧，所以也希望这本讲义能够帮助大家走出迷惘与困境。全诗的意境是指，在曾经门庭若市的家门口看到门可罗雀的凄凉场景，昔日的万丈高楼已经变成了断壁残垣，尘土飞扬，在绝望的崖壁上等待死亡的时候，月光洒下，用尽最后一丝希望迎来了雅思的机会与曙光，携带着重振家族的志气与决定，一定要让自己身披霓裳或战甲再次归来。也是这本讲义的魂与决心。所以起名，烟月霓裳。

Concentration

1. When do you need concentration?

That's a lot.

When I need to solve a difficult problem or take an exam, I have to concentrate. If not, the things cannot go well.

What's more, when I am cooking, I also need to focus on preventing getting hurt.

2. What can help you concentrate?

Taking a nap when I feel exhausted is an effective way to recharge my battery. Or eating some snacks can also be useful.

When thinking for too long, listening to light music or watching some interesting videos can also help me focus again.

3. What will make you not concentrate?

I am easily to be affected by many things, including interesting games, catchy stories, discount ads, and so on. And I am the person who has to play well if I want to learn better. I mean; long hours of boring study will drive me crazy.

🚩 sport 【衍生】 activity

1. Do you prefer to do indoor activities or outdoor activities?

I prefer to do indoor activities, like playing badminton. Because I don't need to worry about the weather condition in the outside. For example, even if it's raining cats and dogs, my fitness plan won't be affected.

2. What kinds of activities that Chinese people love to do?

It depends.

For the old, they may love to do some leisure activities, like jogging or doing taichi;

However, for the young, they are more likely to choose fierce sports, such as football or basketball.

This is because of their different physical quality. I mean; the bones of the old are easier to be broken.

3. What kind of activity can be suitable for both the old and the young?

Maybe jogging. First of all, it can be suitable for nearly all the age and gender groups.

Second, we don't have to use any sports facilities. I mean; it is easier to achieve.

- A newly built public facility

- 1) Where it is
- 2) When was it built
- 3) What could you do there
- 4) How you feel about it

The new facility I want to describe is a park named TIANZHEN, which is located in the city centre. It is by far the largest park in our city, and which was built about 6 months ago.

The park was built to provide leisure for the citizens, so we can do all kinds of recreational activities there, including boating, flying kites, doing taichi and so on.

As for my feelings, I think it is an ideal place to kill time and relax. I mean;

You will find many beautiful natural views in it, such as Wanshou Hill and Xianzi Lake. Those landscapes change with the seasons. On the weekends, we can appreciate the views there to relieve the stress from study or work deadlines.

Second, the traffic system around that park is rather excellent. For example, there are many subway stations and bus stops near the gate of it. We can go there easily.

Third, all kinds of sports facilities have been built in the park, like the badminton field and jogging track. Therefore, it is the very place to do exercises in the morning or after dinner, which can help the public strengthen their muscles and improve their immune system.

Generally speaking, that is why I want to describe this park to you.

- An ideal house

考试时态不固定，如果是 where it is 就用一般现在时讲客观状态。

1) Where the house would be located

I hope my ideal house can be located next to the Summer Palace. It is the biggest royal garden of China.

Therefore, I can enjoy the 横轴 2 of the Summer Palace from my window every day.

2) What it would look like

That house had better have three floors, I can set the third floor as my private garden and plant the flowers I like. I think it would be greater if the second floor of the house had 5 bedrooms. I can take my parents and grandparents to live with me.

3) Why you think it would be your ideal house

Oh, I almost forgot to mention it. [捂嘴轻笑]

It would be better if there were some delicious restaurants in the community. I'm a foodie, so that house will meet my desire.

I hope there will be a lot of sports equipment in the community, such as basketball courts, badminton fields and so on, so that every day after work, I can do various sports to strengthen my muscle and enhance my coordination.

I also hope that the government can build many subway stations and bus stops at the gate of the community. In this way, it will be more convenient to travel.

Generally, that's why I want to have such a house

● P3

1. In china, what kind of house is more popular?

It depends.

Metropolises + e.g. + more flats

Large population & limited land resources + house price (high) = cannot afford a house

however

Countryside + more houses + less people

2. What are the advantages and disadvantages of living in city and countryside?

Pros (city) : excellent traffic + 站 s = convenient

Cons (city):air pollution + 横轴 4 (lung cancer)

Pros(countryside):can appreciate more natural landscapes + have a more peaceful life

Cons(countryside): poor economy + hard to find a decent job

✚ A historical building you know

You should say:

1) Where it is

The historical building I'd like to describe is an ancient temple named YANYUE, which is located in the outskirts of my city. It is one of the largest Buddhist [ˈbʊdɪst]佛教 temples in China, and contains numerous pagodas. The history of it can be traced back to about 1000 years ago.

2) What it is used for

It is a good place for citizens to travel and pray.

3) What it looks like

The main hall of the temple is about 3 floors high with red walls and golden tiles. On the top of the temple, you will see some vivid cornices [ˈkɔːnɪs]飞檐 that are similar to the Chinese dragon.

4) What you've learned there and how you felt about it

I got to know the back story of the temple when I was travelling in that place. I mean; it was built for memorizing the creator of the city — Xuqian, who saved the life of a lot of people at that time.

As for my feeling, it's an ideal place to enjoy the weekend.

Part 3

(1). Are there many tall buildings in china?

It depends.

It is easier to see more tall buildings in commercial cities, like BEIJING, SHANGHAI and so on. Because big cities have denser populations. In order to meet the needs of more people, the government has to build as many as high-rise buildings.

However, in the countryside, small flats are more common due to the lower house price.

(2). Do old people and young people in China have the same attitudes towards old buildings?

I don't know what the old people think of traditional architecture, but most young Chinese think old buildings should be protected and saved. Because today's post-80s and post-90s have all received higher education, they all know the importance of traditional architecture.

(3). Is it important to preserve old buildings? And Why?

Sure, it is rather important.

Classical architecture is the soul of a nation. Preserving old buildings allows us to better explore the ancient culture and customs.

Classical architecture is the crystallization of ancient wisdom. By exploring old buildings, we can also learn about our Chinese history and investigate some excellent techniques of traditional buildings.

- A school you attended when you were a kid

- 1) Where it is
- 2) Which teacher did you like best
- 3) What you've learned there
- 4) What impressed you most about this school

The school I'd like to describe is called Sunshine primary school, which is located in the center of my hometown. Sunshine has a long history of about 30 years, and it is always the best primary school in that place.

At that time, I loved my Chinese teacher MR. Wang most. He was a thirty-year-old handsome man with deep eyes and good figure. What's more, Mr. Wang was also a warm-hearted and patient teacher.

In that school, in addition to learning a lot of useful academic knowledge, my teachers also taught me how to be a good person. They told me how to be polite, how to respect others, how to make friends with peers, and so on. All of these provided me with a lot of support for my future development.

[语法提示:in addition to 表示除了什么之外还… 用于段落句首,或句中;To 为介词。注意区分 in addition, 这表示并且。]

The school impressed me for many reasons.

人 teachers of Sunshine school were very obliging. For example, whenever I encountered difficulties in learning, teachers would give me a hand without hesitation.

P3

1. What kinds of schools are there in China?

[national schools, private schools, international schools]

2. What do think is the most important, primary education, secondary education or college education?

All

Primary education can help children generate good habits of learning & help them build a positive personal value and world value

Secondary education is a necessary process for kids to grasp professional knowledge to help them get into further education

College education can provide students with some useful skills about work.

3. Do you think teachers are more strict now?

It depends on different teachers.

Due to the fierce competition, people now have to study harder than before if they want to get a good position in the future. Therefore, some teachers will assign more homework in class and let students finish it.

However,

Many extreme parents think it is wrong for teachers to spank students occasionally in school, which will lead to many teachers afraid to discipline their students.

● A place where you love to read or write

- 1) Where it is
- 2) How often you go there
- 3) Who you would like to go with
- 4) Why you love to read or write there

The place I'd like to describe is a library called Sunshine, which is located in the central park of my city. The history of this place can be traced back to about 100 years ago. And it is the largest library in my province.

I go there very frequently, about 3 times per week, because I need to 横轴 10. You know, In china, 10why.

Normally, I'd like to go there with my best friend Peter. He is a knowledgeable man who has received the offer from Cambridge university. Now, he is about 20 years old. In my eyes, Peter is a handsome boy with deep eyes and good figure.

There are many reasons why I love to read or write there, and the most obvious one is that 人 the librarians [laɪˈbreəriən] there are very obliging. For example, whenever I want to look up some books, they would like to give me a hand without hesitation. Therefore, I can get what I need quickly in that place. Besides, they don't allow the public to speak loudly, so I can concentrate more on my study in that place.

风 as what I said before, this library is situated in the central park. Hence, I can appreciate the lake and hills through the window of the library to relieve the pressure from study.

P3

1. Why do many children write worse than they read?

Actually, writing is harder than reading. We have to admit that.

Reading requires a person to have strong comprehension and wide vocabulary;

However,

If you want to write well, you not only have to remember and recite numerous words, but also have to own creativity and logical thinking.

● A place you visited that was full of colors

- 1) Where it is
- 2) When it visited it
- 3) How many colors did you see
- 4) How you felt about it

The place I'd like to describe is Tianzhen, a poetic and picturesque city located in the south of China.

Oh, forgot to say, the history of it can be traced back to about 1000 years ago.

I visited this place about 2 months ago because I happened to have a 10-day holiday at that time.

It's hard to say how many colours that I saw because I was deeply attracted by the dazzling ['dæzlɪ ɪ ŋ] array [ə'reɪ] 琳琅满目的 of foods and multi-coloured sceneries of the place.

As for my feeling, I think it is the paradise on earth.

Along the city's beaches, you can see the deep sea aligned with the light blue sky, and occasionally fly over a few gray seagulls ['si:gʌl], which forms a wonderful picture.

城市的海滩边，深邃的大海与湛蓝的天空连成一线，偶尔飞过几只灰色的海鸥，构成了一幅美妙画卷。

城市的街道边种满了翠绿的行道树。华灯初上，霓虹闪耀，五彩斑斓。

Come to the downtown snack market, you'll be amazed at the variety of local cuisines here, including antique golden Peking duck, bright red ice-sugar haw, milky white bean curd [kɜ:d], and so on. The colours make you not want to leave the city at all.

市政中央的小吃集市，一个让你惊叹于各地美食的地方，有着各色各样的小吃，比如古铜色的北京烤鸭，鲜红的冰糖葫芦，乳白色的豆腐脑。这些都让你驻足不前。

1. What colour you think people would choose when decorating their houses?

The majority of Chinese people would like to choose bright colours to decorate their homes, such as bright blue, pink and white, because when the sunlight is not enough, especially in winter, these colours can make the house look brighter and warmer.

2. What kind of colour does advertisement often use?

It depends.

For food advertisements, directors usually choose colours like yellow or red, because they can arouse people's appetite.

However,

For cosmetics advertisements, directors are more likely to choose simple colours, such as grey or white, which will make people feel very clean and refreshing visually. Therefore, they will buy the products more.

3. Do colours affect people's moods?
4. Do colours influence people when they buy things?

- A singer or a band you like
- 1. Who the person is / what the band is
- 2. What type of music the person/band is good at
- 3. How did you know the person/band
- 4. Why do you like the person/band

The singer I'd like to describe is Liang Jingru, who is a famous and popular singer in China(这无所谓). Now, she is about 40 years old. But in my eyes, she is still a gorgeous lady with a pair of deep eyes. Moreover, Liang is rather polite.

She is good at nearly all types of music, like pop, jazz, blue, classic music and so on. I mean; she is really versatile.

I got to know Liang about 10 years ago, because she won the best singer of the Golden Melody Awards at that time.

I love her for some reasons,

1st, Liang has a beautiful voice and a gift in art. I mean; she can dance, can paint, can sing songs, and can play all types of instruments, like piano and violin. On some important festivals, she will give performances to amuse the public. And I always be touched by her heady melody and impressive lyrics.

2nd, she is so beautiful and elegant. She owns a slim body and a straight nose. I admire her very much [女生的答案]. I really want to find a girlfriend like her actually. [男生的答法].

3rd, Li is also an obliging star, because she always donates money to help impoverished people. And what she did influenced a lot of fans. Apparently, she is a good example to us.

P3

1) Do singers earn a lot in China?

Oh, it depends.

For singers who have a large amount of fans and supporters, they can earn so much, because fans will buy their albums and concert tickets. More importantly, they have the ability to attract fans to buy goods, so a lot of companies would like to invite them to endorse their products.

However, for little-known singers, maybe they can just earn a little more than ordinary people.

2) What kind of music is more popular in China? (why)

This is hard to define.

I think children are more likely to listen to children's song, because the lyrics are easier for them to understand and tune is easier to grasp.

Nevertheless, for the young, they like pop because the singers who they love sing pop more, such as Justin Bieber and Taylor Swift.

3) Do you think women can sing better than men?

I think this is not related to gender difference, but related to one's gift.

In the world, it is common to see that a lot of famous and outstanding artists are male, such as Pavarotti.

4) why do people like pop music more than other types of music?

5) Do you think the best singers are the ones with the most fans?

- A person who encouraged you to achieve a goal

1. Who the person is
2. How did you know the person
3. How the person helped and encouraged you
4. How you felt about the person

The person I'd like to describe is my friend Peter, who is a university student. Now, he is about 20 years old. And in my eyes, Peter is rather handsome with a pair of sparkling eyes and a straight nose. What's more, he is so warmhearted.

I got to know him about 3 years ago, because he moved to the next door of my home at that time.

Last year, I was learning Japanese and I met some difficulties. Because + 难逻辑。He told me that 横轴 6 and gave me some suggestions about how to learn that language, such as listening to Japanese radio and watching Japanese animation.

As for my feelings, Peter is an outstanding man.

His words helped me a lot actually. I mean; I finally picked up Japanese. And now, I can have some simple conversations with others by using that language. Without his encouragement, I couldn't fulfill that.

P3

- 1) How to make children interested in things they are not into?

Parents can give their children some rewards when they make some obvious achievements in things they are not into. For example, we can offer children some things they have dreamed for a long time if they get high grades, or the first prize in Olympiad of certain subjects.

- 2) Who is more important in encouraging children, teachers or parents?

Both of them are important.

I think we should not compare them, because parents are the enlightened tutors for children. Their behavior and words will influence children's personal values and world values deeply. For example, if the parents are so obliging and who often donate sth. they don't need anymore to help those impoverished people, their children will be more warm-hearted as well.

And when they become 5 or even older, they will spend most of their day time in schools. At that time, teachers can be the same role as parents.

3) When it's necessary to put people down? 【打击人】

When a friend makes great achievements, we should give him or her some advice on what they are not good at, or he or she will easily become complacent [kəm'pleɪsnt] and let down his or her guard.

When children become defiant [dɪ'faiənt], parents should give timely blow to let them know that there are other people.

4) Do you think encouragement is better than punishment in getting desired result?

● A person who can speak a second language

- 1) Who the person is
- 2) What kind of language the person can say
- 3) How long did he learn this skill
- 4) How did he learn the language

He learned the language in many ways.

1st, he told me that he would listen to Japanese radio and watch Japanese animation every day to strengthen the memories of its pronunciation.

2nd, he also took part in a training class to practice with other people who were learning Japanese as well

3rd, he believed that 横轴 6. So, he finally made it, and I'm especially happy for him.

P3

1) What's the kind of foreign language do children in your country learn?

Oh, that's a lot. For most children, they have to learn English, and which is a compulsory course in China.

But for some unique areas, like northeast provinces, children there also need to learn Russian and Korean, because those places are nestled close to these two countries.

2) how important it is to learn foreign language?

It's a good tool that can expand our social circle, because we will own the ability to communicate with foreigners;

Second, learning new languages can help a person become more competitive. With the proliferation of the globalization, there are more and more transnational-corporations today, so knowing at least two kinds of languages can help employees get more job chances.

3) It is easier for people to learn a new language when they're young than when they're older?

In theory, yes.

When people are young, they have better memories. This means that they can remember things quicker in that age.

However, when they become old, they can spend time in learning because they have retired and don't need to struggle with work or other study things every day.

Therefore, actually, it's difficult to judge. You now, it is never too late to dream.

4) Do you agree that people who can speak multiple language cannot master the languages well?

- A person who has interesting ideas and opinions

1. Who the person is
2. How did you know about the person
3. What the interesting idea was
4. And how you felt about the person

The person I'd like to describe is peter + 名职年外性

3 years ago + moved to the next door ~

3 months ago, I lost my key in the grass and couldn't find it, Peter helped me with a magnet. You see, what a brilliant and funny man he is!

As for my feelings, I think he is very outstanding, because 1st, knowledgeable + Cambridge = students + academic trouble + hand = moreover, he always organizes all kinds of interesting games to help children grasp some difficult knowledge better. for example, he would hold some community game shows, and the awards are fruit, like apple or grape.

2nd, versatile + can 各种 = the old + lonely + play guitar and tell jokes to make them happy.

✚ P3

- 1) When do children begin to have their own ideas?

From a documentary made by CCTV, I got to know that children generally begin to have a sense of self at the age of 2. They begin to own their possessions and are reluctant to share toys with other children. it's interesting, right?

And when they become 4, they will have gender consciousness. I mean; they will know that their father is male and their mother is female.

2) Why are there more and more differences between children and their parents?

Because they are two generations, they live in different environments and social forms. The same thing can be seen differently in different time, such as LGBT issues. 30 or 40 years ago, it would have been hard to accept[记不住就 It was hard to accept]; but now, more and more young people identify with and respect those groups.

3) Should parents set rules for children?

Sure. Children love to play, and that's their nature. Moreover, their self-control is poor, so most of them cannot concentrate on one thing for a long time.

Setting rules for children can push them to finish tasks on time, and they can also learn some ways to manage time. However, we should also give them some freedom to make choices and decisions. If not, their creativity and independence will be limited. It's not good for their future development.

- A person who often takes airplane

- 1) Who the person is
- 2) How often does he do it
- 3) Where does he usually go
- 4) How do you feel about the it

The person I'd like to describe is my neighbor Peter, who is the CEO of a small business. Now, the person is about 30 years old. However, he is still full of charm. I mean; peter has deep eyes, manly nose and bonny figure.

From the conversation, I learned that he would take a plane to other places for business travel about once a week. Yeah, that's pretty frequent.

He said that he may travel to nearly all the cities in the east areas of China, including Shanghai, Suzhou, Hangzhou, and so on. Because he does most of his business there.

I think air travel is an effective way to transport people among different regions, especially some far places. It saves people's time and allows them to spend it on more important affairs. Because the airplane doesn't have to consider the impact of the terrain [tə'reɪn]地形 on traffic.

However,

Flying is also boring because you will not be served by the internet access on the plane, and you can only read some meaningless advertising magazines provided by the airline companies.

What's more, you also need to arrive at the airport at least 2 hours in advance to go through security checks.

P3

1. What are the benefits & drawbacks of air travel?

2. How do you feel about the airport shops?

It's the paradise for shopping. The price of goods is much cheaper than those sold in shopping centers because they are duty-free.

However, the service attitude of airport assistants is especially bad. I don't know how it is in Heathrow, but it's not good in a lot of Asian countries. I don't know why.

3. What are the advantages and disadvantages of living near the airport?

4. Do you think airport is a good workplace?

People who work in airports have some internal welfare. For example, they can buy the air ticket at a much lower price. & Environment is relatively good. + excellent public facilities

Hungry + find a restaurant easily

However, planes make a lot of noise when they take off or land, and working in this kind of environment for a long time is harmful to health. & Airport is normally far away from the city center, so it will be very difficult to commute. Otherwise, you have to live near the airport.

P3

1. What difficulties do people often encounter in their work?

The first one should be communication barriers, because different people have different ideas towards one thing because of their different cultural background and living environment. When disputes arise, problems are difficult to resolve.

Second, nearly 70% of young generation have to work overtime. In china, 10why. 10. But this will influence their mental and physical health largely.

2. How do people solve them?

For the first situation, we can learn how to tolerate other ideas and try to find a balance between each other. But for the latter one, maybe we can only try to do some leisure activities in free time to relax + e.g.

3. What skills should managers have?

- A film you would like to share with your friends

- 1) What it is
- 2) When you watched it
- 3) What it is about
- 4) Why you would like to share with your friends

Tangled is a 2010 American 3D computer-animated musical adventure film produced by Walt Disney Animation Studios and released by Walt Disney Pictures. It was created from the German fairy tale "Rapunzel" in the collection of folk tales published by the Brothers Grimm.

I watched it about 6 months ago, and this movie was recommended by my good friend Peter to help me practice English.

This film is about a lost princess named Rapunzel, who has a head of magical long golden hair. When she was only 1 year old, she was robbed by a witch because of her hair's power of healing illness and decay 衰败[dɪˈkeɪ]. Until one day, a prince came across and found out the secret between the witch and the lost princess. Finally, he saved the life of Rapunzel.

I like it so much because

First, I love Rapunzel, actually, she is my role model. In that movie, the character of Rapunzel is so distinct. She is brave, strong and energetic. Even though she is locked in witch's high tower, she insists on finding ways to go out.

Second, this film encouraged me a lot, since it tells me that no matter how your heart is grieving, if you keep on believing, the dream that you wish will come true. Rapunzel, as a lost princess, eventually won the mission because of her courage and brilliance. I really should learn her attitude of solving problems.

More importantly, the back ground music of this movie is my favourite type. So, I felt rather relaxed and delighted when I was watching this movie. I mean; Its gentle melody and attractive tune took me into a wonderful world and helped me forget trouble in real life.

You see, there is no reason for me to dislike it.

P3

1. Is it fair that movie stars earn a lot of money?
2. Why movie stars' personal lives being exposed to the public?

Fans will be curious about their private life off screen. In order to get more profits, many reporters would like to secretly take pictures of the stars personal lives and post them on the social media to achieve clicks.

Moreover, when their new movies are about to be released, some of the main characters will expose their private lives which are not so important and negative. This behavior can help them get more attention.

3. Should celebrities control their behavior in their lives?

Stars' private lives are always under the scrutiny of the media, so if they do something inappropriate, it may affect their whole career.

Besides, the way they act, dress and talk can influence many trends, especially for teenagers, who like to imitate the behavior of stars.

Actually, I haven't seen any of the asking and answering show on TV, so I want to describe a real game show. We also call it as e-sports game shows.

The game show I'd like to describe is a live video on League of Legends 【英雄联盟】. League of Legends is a multiplayer online battle arena /əˈlɪːnə/ video game developed and published by Riot /ˈraɪ ɒt/ Games. The game show introduces the 2018 League of Legends final. The game was played between 2 famous teams, IG and WE. At last, IG won the race by a narrow margin.

As for my feelings, I think that game show was very exciting.

The reasons are listed below.

First, in that show, WE had been leading all the time, but they were overtaken by IG due to a small mistake. In that game, it was a pity, but if put in the reality, it may become a regret that can never be remedied. I mean; we should always keep a careful state. Neither be proud of success, nor be so sad of failure.

Second, in the post-match interview, I learned that IG had been trying to win the game for give years. Hence, I think that 横轴 6(no matter how your heart is grieving, if you keep on believing, the dream that you wish will come true). This game show encouraged me a lot.

1) what kinds of shows people in your country like to watch on TV?

Old + health programs + easier to get sick + can learn some useful ways to live longer

Young + variety shows + 10why + interesting design and attract plot can 5

2) Do you think online TV programs will eventually replace regular TV programs?

Yes, but not now.

Online TV programs can enrich and facilitate our lives. For example, if you miss a show, you can watch the recording at any free time in the future. Furthermore, you can choose what you want to watch at any time, and your preferences are no longer controlled by the TV station.

However, currently, there are a large amount old people do not know how to operate devices to watch TV programs. That is why I said "but not now".

3) Do people in the past enjoyed watching TV more than they do now?

Yes

4) Do you think it is difficult to produce a game show?

5) Describe the skills that a TV producer need?

A good TV producer should have the ability to grasp the current events and hot issues. only in this way can his/her TV programs be in tune with the trend and attract audiences.

In addition, good communication skill is also important. Producers need to negotiate with directors and investors, as well as, convey their ideas to the cast and crew.

● An impressive advertisement

4. Why do you think it is so impressive

The impressive advertisement I'd like to talk about is a TV advertisement, which is a tourism ad about Hangzhou. And Hangzhou + 名位 title 历

I saw it last month. At that time, I was watching TV, and this ad interrupted the program, but it also made a deep impression on me.

I saw this ad on Zhejiang TV station, which is the official TV station of Zhejiang province.

There are many reasons why I think this ad is very impressive,

First, scenes of this advertisement are so exquisite, with high definition and excellent colour matching.

When I was watching this advertisement, I felt as if I were in a fairy tale world.

Second, it describes 横轴 2 of Hangzhou, including the West lake, Lingyin temple and Leifeng pagoda.

This ad whetted my appetite to travel to Hangzhou.

More importantly, the advertisement also shows many famous and toothsome local dishes, such as Longjin shrimp and Dongpo pork. I am a foodie, so I really want to try them in person.

Generally speaking, that is why I want to describe the advertisement to you.

 P3

1) What is the importance of music in advertising?

A good piece of music can help an advertisement to gain more sales profits, because when people the song, they can think of the ads and products associated with the song.

More importantly, good music can make an ad a good short film, not just a "one min video" to sell sth.

2) what are the kinds of advertisements that are often seen in China?

3) Do you think young people are more easily influenced by advertisements?

I think so, because most young people did not experience the poverty of the 1970s and 1980s in China.

I mean; they are not money-conscious.

What's more, they don't have the same rich experience as the old, so they are more likely to be attracted by the products shown in Ads.

4) what ways that companies can do to improve their sales?

5) how ads aimed at kids may have a negative impact?

They often exaggerate the functions of the goods, and which will mislead children. for example, there is a famous chocolate brand in China named TIANZHEN, and the slogan of it is "chocolate is for sharing".

Therefore, when children want to make friends with other people, they will buy that type of chocolate as the gift. However, this kind of mindset will increase the risk of getting diseases, such as obesity.

The thing I'd like to describe is a piece of Tang-suit, which is a kind of Chinese traditional clothes that people may wear on formal occasions. My tang-suit is a large-sized clothes. The colour is bright yellow, which is my favourite one. As for the details, it has 2 long sleeves and a standing collar. On it, you can also see a pattern similar to the Chinese dragon.

I bought it about 6 months ago, when I was travelling in Xi'an, a poetic and picturesque city located in the north of China. The history of that city can be traced back to about 3000 years ago.

I took it home for some reasons.

1st, I saw the pattern model of Chinese dragon on that dress, and which 横轴 1. Therefore, I thought that piece of clothing would bring me good fortune.

2nd, as what I said before, we may wear tang-suit on formal occasions. As a media student, I have to attend all kinds of parties. So, I often wear that clothes to show my respect and sincerity to other people.

3rd, tang-suit was rather popular in ancient China, and I especially enjoy studying Chinese traditional culture and customs. Apparently, that dress is my taste.

1) Are people buying souvenirs good for the locals?

In the short run, yes.

This phenomenon will increase the income of locals and improve their life quality. Besides, it will also create so many job chances for certain places.

However, from a long-term point of view, this may influence the balance of the Eco-system. In order to get more profits, local people would like to over exploit some rare resources. For example, there is a famous desert in my hometown named Sun-cake, and you have to use a kind of rare plant to make it. However, now, because of this, it's hard to see that plant in my province.

2) What souvenirs would people buy from tourist attractions?

That's a lot.

Some people like to buy local snacks, simply because it is easier to carry back and the price is not example. I mean; it can be an excellent gift.

However, other people may choose unique and exquisite crafts to decorate their homes. This kind of souvenir can reflect one's taste more. Besides, it also means that you've been to this place.

1) What's the difference between the dressing style of young people and that of old people?

Young people are more likely to choose plain clothes, like grey t-shirt, black trousers and white skirts, because they think those colours can help them look more mature;

But for the old, they may choose multi-coloured clothes, because they believe colour stuff can make them energetic and young.

You know, people always admire what they don't have.

When it comes to the quality, old people will wear comfortable and breathable clothes, but young people will pay more attention to fashion.

2) Do the people living in south China wear different clothes from the people living in the north?

Actually, there is no big difference, except in the winter. At that time, the temperature difference between north and south can reach 20 or even 30 degrees, so most northerners would wear down jackets, or even some animal fur. I know it's not good, but some areas pass down it from their ancestors.

We should respect them.

However, in HK, many people still wear short sleeves or t-shirts in winter. That's cute.

3) Do you think students should wear uniforms?

On weekdays, yes, they should.

While there is no evidence that uniforms help students concentrate, they can at least save their time in the morning, because they don't have to think about what to wear.

What's more, uniforms can also help schools manage students easily, because this kind of clothes can stop bad guys at the gate. I mean; no one can get into the school without uniform.

However, this rule may affect the development of children's art appreciation ability and unique personality. Therefore, I think on the weekends, we should give them the freedom to wear what they want.

4) Do people in your country like buying clothes?

5) Why is fashion changing all the time?

First of all, people love the new stuff, that's human nature.

Second, every day, designers of big brands will create new fashions, or add some new elements on what was fashionable many years ago. Then, having a fashion show and inviting some models to show off their ideas, which will spread to every place of the world in a rapid speed. And people call it as "new age".

● A toy you liked to play when you were a kid

1) What it was

2) How you got it

3) What it looks like

4) Why you liked to play it

The toy I'd like to describe was a set of blocks. When I was a kid, I always used hundreds of colorful blocks to construct various buildings, handicrafts or characters. Sometimes, I also gave some to my friends as a precious gift. Yeah, you know. After all, it was a work of art to some extent.

I played it when I was in primary school and middle school. At that time, I often participated in building blocks competitions.

And it was a birthday gift sent by my grandma when I was 10 years old. She is the most familiar family to me, because she took care of me a lot at that time.

It was a little difficult actually. As a kid, my imagination was limited, and in order to finish different tasks, I needed to imagine so many pictures to match my inner thoughts. However, in this aspect, it was also an effective way to improve my art appreciation ability.

Moreover, this game improved my concentration. A small mistake or omission 遗漏 in building blocks can cause the failure. Hence, I had to do that meticulously [məˈlɪkjələsli]一丝不苟地.

More importantly, this activity improved my sense of teamwork. Because if you want to make a complex model, you have to cooperate with your partners. For example, one person has to sort the blocks according to different colours, and another one has to put them together.

P3

1. What are the differences between the toys of today and those in the past?

With the development of the technology, today's toys are normally wiser. I mean; people can use some remote controls or download applications to operate them.

What's more,

Now, toys are generally more gorgeous and colourful, because many manufacturers have more money to invest in building new models thanks to the economy boost.

2. Do you think parents should limit the time their children play games?

3. Children have a trend of comparing things that they have or don't have with others, is that a good thing?

It has pros and cons.

For the benefits, comparison can stimulate them to study harder in order to get what they want. I mean; parents can set sth. they like to be a reward for their achievements.

As for the drawbacks, this may misguide children. They are likely to form the mindset of money worship.

What's more, their parents work burden will also be increased a lot.

The gift I'd like to describe was a box of sun-cakes. Sun-cake is a popular Chinese traditional dessert [d I 'zɜ:t] that people may eat on some formal occasions, like wedding ceremony or Chinese New Year. And it is usually sold in special gift boxes as souvenirs for visitors.

I made it for my best friend Peter as his 20th birthday gift. He is a handsome with deep eyes, manly nose and good figure.

The diameter of the Sun-cake that I made was about 10cm, and the shape was round. Its colour was golden, which makes the cake look like the sun. On it, there was a pattern similar to the Chinese dragon.

I prepared it for a long time because I am not good at making pastry. I mean; it took me hours just to mix and ferment. [fə'ment]

Besides, sun-cake is normally filled with nuts, including walnut and peanut. Therefore, I also spent much time in crushing [krʌʃ] 碾压 nuts.

More importantly, Chinese dragon 横轴 1. So, carving the Chinese dragon pattern on the sun-cake also took up a lot of my time.

Luckily, the taste was good. I think it's worth all my efforts.

1. How do people choose gifts?

In china, most people, especially women, love to use Taobao to search what they want. It's a habit that they will browse Taobao APP before they go to bed. In that place, we can get nearly all the legal things.

2. Why is it hard to choose gifts?

First, we need to consider whether others like it or not; second, we have to ensure it is useful. And more importantly, those gifts with both good appearance and practical functions are very expensive.

So, it's really hard to get a good deal.

● A picture or photo in your home

2) Where it is

3) How you got it

4) How do you feel about it

I enlarged the photo twice and placed it in our living room.

2 months ago, when I was travelling in Huangshan, I was deeply attracted by the impressive scenery of the sunrise and sea clouds there, then I decided to take a photo to save the landscape as my good memory.

This is the best photo I've ever taken. Whenever I see this photo, it always reminds me of the unforgettable trip I had with my family in Huangshan. The peculiarly-shaped [pɪ 'kju:lɪəli] 奇特造型的 peaks, pine trees and hot springs, all of these seemed to be still vivid in my mind.

What's more, on the right is a picture of me and my ex boyfriend/girlfriend. The trip in Huangshan was our last travel together, and this photo is the only one I left. Although we have broken up, he still left me a lot of happiness. So, this picture is more like a witness of our past love.

1. Should children attend art classes?

It depends.

If they are interested in art, like music, dance and painting, we should allow them to attend related classes. It's an effective way to increase their confidence, because they will be braver to show their talent in front of the public.

However, if not, we shouldn't push them, because which will upset them.

2. Do Chinese people like to visit art galleries?

3. What are the advantages and disadvantages of taking photos with a mobile phone?

Talking about advantages, it is more convenient. We can adjust the picture with some applications directly, such as adding filters with a click. After that, we can also post them on the social media to get more likes through the mobile phone.

Nevertheless, the pixels are not as clear as the camera.

✚ A popular thing of the place where you come from(e.g. food, craft, car...)

- 1) What it is

The popular thing of my city that I want to describe is named Sun-cake, which is a popular Chinese traditional dessert [d I ˈzɜ:t] that people may eat on some formal occasions, like wedding ceremony or Chinese New Year. And it is usually sold in special gift boxes as souvenirs for visitors.

Oh, forgot to mention, my city is ~, a poetic and picturesque place located in the south of China. And the history of it can be traced back to about 2000 years ago.

The diameter of Sun-cake is about 10cm, and the shape is round. Its colour is usually golden, which makes the cake look like the sun. On it, you can see a pattern that is similar to the Chinese dragon.

There are many reasons why it's popular, and the most obvious one is that

Sun-cake symbolizes 横轴 1 in my hometown's culture. So, we think eating it can bring us good fortune.

Second, the taste is rather good. And some famous suncake pastry [ˈpe I stri] shops 糕点铺 always have long lines of people waiting to buy boxed suncakes.

Third, there is a tradition in my province that people will stay up late on the eve of the spring festival to pray for happiness of the coming year. At that time, we may feel hungry. And sun-cake can provide energy for us because it is filled with nuts, like walnut and peanut.

1. What are the different foods in different places in China?

Northerners often eat pasta, such as noodles and pies, because the weather there is dry. They plant more wheat. But for southerners, they normally eat rice, because there are many rainy days, and they plant more rice.

2. Why are they different?

2 months ago, I lost a box of sun-cakes in the restaurant where I had dinner with my friend Peter. And the sun-cake was a gift sent by him. It's a kind of Chinese traditional food that people may eat on some important festivals because sun-cake 横轴 1.

I put it next to my seat, but we left it there after we finished eating. It wasn't until we got on the subway that I suddenly remembered I had left this gift behind.

I quickly called the owner of the restaurant. Fortunately, the cake was still there and the owner saved it for us. Otherwise, I would be very regretful because my friend waited in line for 2 hours to buy this gift.

It was an educational and unforgettable experience for me. Since then, every time I leave a place, I will look around to see if there is anything left behind.

More importantly, I think what looks bad is not necessarily a bad thing, because it can give you a lot of inspiration to avoid making the same mistake in the future.

P3

1. Will you pick up things that other people lost on the street?

For most situations, no.

There many cheaters in cities, so I am afraid of falling into the trap. Besides, I don't need anything that doesn't belong to me. If I want, I'll buy it by myself.

2. In ancient times, why were people keen on treasure hunting?

Because in ancient times, there were many tombs that had not been stolen or exploited, it was relatively easy to find the treasure. What's more, at that time, the economy was underdeveloped, so many people didn't have formal jobs. In order to feed a family, they would take tasks.

6 months ago, my family was planning a trip to Hangzhou, and I was responsible to make the project and book hotels on the Internet. Hangzhou 的名位 title 历

As what I said just now, it happened about 6 months ago, because we had a 10-day holiday at that time.

I spent nearly 2 days to solve that problem by looking up useful information on the internet and scanning some related books.

I solved the task in many ways,

First, I found a tourism documentary about Hangzhou on the internet and watched it. That TV program introduces 横轴 2 of Hangzhou, such as the west lake and lingyin temple, which helped me make an excellent travel plan.

Second, I also found travel guides posted by others on the social media WEIBO. They all recommended people to book a hotel near the West lake called TIANZHEN, because the food provided by that hotel is very toothsome and mouth-watering, especially the dongpo pork and longjing shrimp. We are foodies, so the internet helped us a lot.

Generally speaking, that is the problem what I want to say.

1) Are there many people wasting their time on the internet?

Yes. In the net bar, it's common to see a lot of youngsters may play the video games for a whole day; on the subway or bus, you can also see a lot of people staring at the screen until they get out of the car.

6 months ago, I was planning a trip to Hangzhou, and I chose the airplane to go because that city is far away from where I was. Hangzhou + 名位 title 历

I remember it was a Wednesday morning and I got up at about 4 am. I did a lot of things before I went to the airport, including packing my suitcase, reserving a taxi, eating the breakfast and so on.

I had to get up early for many reasons,

First, the plane ticket for Hangzhou at noon was very expensive. And I was a student, so I couldn't afford it. I mean; that's why I chose to book a really early flight.

Second, I made an appointment to meet my friend Peter in a local restaurant of Hangzhou at 12 o'clock, because we needed to talk about sth. important. If I hadn't chosen that early plane, I wouldn't have been able to get to Hangzhou before 12.

Generally speaking, that is the event what I want to say.

P3

1) When people may sleep in China?

It's different. The old may sleep early, maybe around 10 or 11 pm, because they can finish what they want to do in the day time.

However, for the young, they always stay up late, because 横轴 10why, 横轴 10.

2) do you think waking up early is a health thing to do?

It depends when you sleep because we need 7 to 8 hours of sleep to be able to function the next day.

If you sleep late, getting up early would destroy your health and concentration.

3) how staying up late influence a young person?

On one hand, staying up late will decline one's immune system and increase the risk of getting diseases.

On the other hand, it will also decrease your study or work efficiency, because you may feel so sleepy and dizzy in the next day. What's worse, fatigue drive may cause some accidents.

- A time you gave advice to a person

1. Who you gave it to
2. When it happened
3. What advice it was
4. What's the result of it

Last year, I gave some tips to help my little brother Peter learn Japanese better. He is a university student, and in my eyes, Peter is rather handsome with a pair of deep eyes.

As what I said before, it happened last year, because he was planning to have a trip to Japan but he said that Japanese was rather difficult to him.

I suggested him watch some Japanese animations to take himself into a visual local environment because the grammatical order and pronunciation habits of Japanese are rather different from Chinese. Moreover, I also made a complete study plan for him because he couldn't concentrate on one thing for a long time. I mean; after he studied for an hour, he had to play for a while, which made the progress very slow.

With our joint efforts, he finally learned this language. And this affair improved his confidence and patience. I mean; it tells him that 横轴 6.

Besides, the result also gave him a sense of achievement. Because he can use Japanese to have some simple conversations with other people now.

P3

- 1) What general advice will parents give to children?

That's a lot. Parents should give children advice about how to generate good study habits and how to make plan, because children's self-control is rather poor that they cannot concentrate on one thing for a long time; moreover, they should also teach children how to choose friends, because children are hard to distinguish the right from wrong due to their limited life experience. If they make friends with people who have negative and bad habits, they may go astray.

2) What are the personal qualities that a helpful advisor should have?

First, a helpful advisor should be knowledgeable. I mean; he/she should master all aspects of knowledge, because only in this way can his/her advice be more far-reaching and comprehensive. Second, the person should also be active and positive. If not, the advice might mislead others.

3) do people who gives good advice usually don't have problems in their life?

I don't think so. We can only say that maybe their problems are less, but saints have their own hard questions. For example, Confucius, the most famous thinker in Chinese history, helped many Kings during his lifetime, but he was also concerned that his ideas would not be effectively disseminated.

4) what are the advantages of getting advice from people with different cultural background?

This can help you make a more all-sided decision. People with different cultural background will give you the advice from their own angles, and which can help you analyse the question in a more comprehensive way. More importantly, their analysis can also help you spot many hidden problems that are invisible on the surface.

5) whether giving bad advice to another person might weaken the relationship with that person?

it depends.

If the advice is related to one's future, such as major selection and job hunting, I think it will weaken your relationship.

However, if the result is not serious, I think it doesn't matter.

For example, one of your good friends suggested you have a dinner in a restaurant, but the taste was not good, I think it would not affect your relations.

It was a meaningful party for me because Japanese was rather difficult. I mean; 难逻辑. Luckily, I overcame it. That language gave me 成就感逻辑. Therefore, I think it's worth celebrating.

Besides, in order to learn it well, I had tried many ways, including 日语学习. This affair tells me that 横轴 6 逻辑.

P3

1. How Chinese people celebrate important days, like one's birthday?

Most people may invite good friends and family members to have a reunion dinner at home. During that dinner, they may do some recreational activities to relax and discuss the household to strengthen their relationships.

However, for a very small percentage of people, they will book a feast at a very fancy hotel and invite all their friends to the party to celebrate together.

2. Why would some people go crazy supporting their favourite football or basketball teams?

These types of sports involve both winning and losing, so they can bring tension and excitement to supporters.

Some superstars in those teams, like Michael Jordan and David Beckham, can determine the outcome of a game by their own efforts, which gives supporters a sense of common honor and achievement.

I invited nearly all my direct relatives to come since we hadn't seen each other for such a long time.

They all said it was an unforgettable dinner.

Young + outside + 10 + don't have time to cook

2) What is the difference between the food that Chinese people eat on festivals and in their daily life?

Actually, there is no big difference. With the development of the economy, now people can buy the expensive raw materials every day that they could only eat on festivals before, such as the sea cucumber and pork ribs.

However, if I have to say the difference, maybe we will eat more types of cuisines on festivals, because we love and respect tradition. At that time, a lot of Chinese people will return to their homes to have a reunion dinner with their family.

1. When it happened
2. Where it happened
3. What he/she said
4. How you felt about it

Last month, I met a person on the subway who was loudly calling her husband with tears in her eyes because she seemed lost her way.

That woman was about 40 years old with a red coat that was not so fashionable. I mean; she seemed to come from a remote place.

I didn't hear what she said clearly, but all were about "where are you? I cannot find you" and so on.

I think she was helpless and pathetic, although her behavior was not every polite and disturbed the public order. We should give more tolerance to the society, because everyone will encounter some emergencies and things beyond their control. At that time, if someone can help, the society will be more harmonious.

Luckily, after 5 minutes, the police came and gave her a hand timely.

Anyway, happy ending! Hhha

P3

- 1) Do you think there is any difference between people who speak loudly face to face in public places and people who make phone calls loudly?

Actually, there is no big difference, because both of them are impolite, and which will affect other people.

However, if you get in emergencies, for example, you're being robbed, it is reasonable to speak loudly.

- 2) what are the kinds of calls people have to make every day?

There are quite a few. Couples in love call each other every day to ease their yearning. Parents call their children who are studying in other places to make sure that they are safe. In many primary schools in China, teachers also need to call students' parents every day to let them know their children's progress.

- 3) how can someone start a talk with a stranger?

First of all, you can start with a brief eye contact or an honest smile. It's a good way to show your politeness. Then, be brave enough to say hello. After that, try to talk as much as possible about common interests and hobbies.

- 4) is it very hard for strangers to get to know each other in big cities?

Right, especially in metropolises, like BEIJING, SHANGHAI, and so on. In those places, people need to struggle with their work or study till the midnight every day if they want to stand out because of the large population and keen competition. Therefore, they don't have free time to socialize with strangers. What's more, there are many liars in big cities, so people may worry about being cheated.

5) Do you think it is important for people to be less well-mannered sometimes?

Sure. When you have a family reunion dinner together, being too polite can make everyone feel distant. For example, you say, mom! You are so beautiful today. Aunt~ where did you buy your skirt? Because I have never seen such an exquisite one. The atmosphere will be very weird.

- 1) What is the importance of friends?
- 2) Do you prefer spending time with friends or family?
- 3) Is it easier to find close friends or a lot of common friends?

For students, I think it is easier to find a lot of common friends, because schools often organize all kind of activities that you can get to know many new strangers by taking part in them. Also, you can play with your classmates and roommates.

However, for people who work, most of the people they see every day are colleagues who compete with them. What's more, they don't have enough time to socialize because of the heavy pressure. You know, being a social butterfly is a waste of time.

● A time you received incorrect information

1. When it happened
2. What the information was

3. How you received it

4. How you found it was wrong and what did you do after that

Last spring festival, my older sister Anna invited all the relatives to her home to celebrate that holiday.

+ 春节介绍. However, she sent a wrong message to me about the time.

She texted me to go to her house for a Spring festival party on the 3rd day, but the truth was on the 2nd day.

She also said that I had better come earlier to give her some help about decorating the home and preparing raw materials.

I found the information was wrong because on the morning of the 2nd day, she called me and asked why I hadn't arrived yet. I was particularly puzzled. Nevertheless, I did nothing because I was in another city at that time.

I felt very sad, because I saw some photos of that day from their social media. They had a feast together. I mean; my sister made a lot of mouth-watering and toothsome dishes to treat family members, such as dongpo pork, kunpao chicken and peking duck. I am foodie, but I missed that day.

Moreover, they also did many recreational activities after the dinner, including lighting fireworks and playing mahjong. I was so jealous of them.

Whenever I think about it, I can't help but want to make fun of my sister.

P3

1) What kind of working involves giving personal information?

That's a lot.

Teachers should provide their Wechat numbers for parents to allow them to learn about their children's situations per week.

Moreover, salesmen also share their business cards with customers so that they can find themselves to buy products.

2) what's the difference between sending messages via cell phone and email?

Sending messages via email is more formal, so when people want to invite others to attend their wedding ceremony, they are more likely to choose email.

What's more, we can add a lot of attachments to the email, such as videos, photos and so on, to make the email more detailed.

However, sending messages with phone is more convenient. We can check it at any time.

3) Describe the advantages of doing business through email?

Many famous companies, such as Jo Malone, Dior and so on, will send notices or coupons to their members via email during important holidays or discount campaigns. It's a good way to let them know that "OK, you can buy it now. 【语气换成柜姐】". this can increase the sales. More importantly, it is also an effective method to increase the viscosity [vɪs'kɒsəti] between those big brands and their customers.

4) How people are influenced by information that is not correct?

This person may miss some important chances. For example, if the interviewer tells the wrong time, it could be a disaster for job seeker.

Besides, this person can be misled. For example, in class, if the teacher tells a knowledge point wrong, then in the exam, students may suffer.

● An interesting conversation

1) When you had it

2) Who you had it with

3) What you talked about

4) Why it was an interesting conversation

Last spring festival, my older sister Anna celebrated a party in her house and invited a lot of colleagues to come. Oh, forgot to say, Spring festival is the most important holiday in china, as well as, the longest one. On that party, I had an interesting conversation with one of her colleagues John.

It was the first time I saw that person, a very handsome man about 30 years old. He owns deep eyes, manly nose, and good figure.

It was an interesting and memorable conversation for many reasons,

First, in addition to his excellent appearance, he is a man of many talents. I mean; he can play many types of musical instruments, including piano, violin and guitar. In that conversation, we even discussed something about crosstalk, which is the Chinese version of talk shows. His exaggerated expressions and funny lines deeply attracted me.

Second, from the conversation, I learned that he graduated from Cambridge university about 5 years ago. And John gave me a lot of useful suggestions about how to improve IELTS and how to choose the universities in the UK. They are very useful to me.

P3

1. Do you think a sense of humor is important?

Yes, of course. A sense of humor can help broaden one's social circle, because people are more likely to make friends with others that are interesting. I mean; the atmosphere will not be awkward or cold.

Besides, this can also help a person get more job chances. For example, in an interview, if two people are equally competent, interviewers may choose the one with a sense of humor, because this kind of person will be easier to cooperate with others in a team.

2. Some people are afraid of giving a public presentation. Why is that?

First, people do not often do such activities or behaviors, so not having too much experience will make a person feel nervous. Besides, speaking in front of a lot of people is a nerve-wracking[nɜ:v 'rækɪŋ] thing to do because you will think about the impression you made on others. I mean; it's normal to be afraid of.

3. Do you think it is important to give diagrams or pictures during a presentation?

Last spring festival, my older sister Anna celebrated a party in her house and invited a lot of colleagues to come. Oh, forgot to say, Spring festival is the most important holiday in china, as well as, the longest one.

Her house is located in the city center of my hometown. It was built about 10 years ago, and which has two living rooms and four bedrooms. In front of the gate, you can see a huge private garden decorated by various plants, and that's the place where we enjoyed the party.

It was the first time I saw her colleague John, a very handsome man about 30 years old. He owns deep eyes, manly nose, and good figure.

It was a memorable experience because the person impressed me a lot on that party.

First, in addition to his excellent appearance, he is a man of many talents. I mean; he can play many types of musical instruments, including piano, violin and guitar. On that party, he gave some performances to amuse us. And I thought he was the most handsome man in the world when he was singing on the stage.

Second, we had a short conversation together, and I learned that he graduated from Cambridge university about 5 years ago. He gave me a lot of useful suggestions about how to improve IELTS and how to choose the universities in the UK.

- 4) Why it was boring

2 years ago, I was planning to learn Japanese because 日语原因. And luckily, my neighbor peter is a popular Japanese teacher, and he gave me some useful suggestions about that. However, the process of learning that language was really boring.

At that time, peter was a 25-year-old handsome man with deep eyes, manly nose and good figure. Actually, a lot of girls in my neighbourhood wanted him to be their boyfriend.

It was a boring experience because Japanese is a difficult language to learn. I mean; 难逻辑. Although he told me that 横轴 6 逻辑, I gave it up.

In the process of learning, in addition to his teaching, I tried many other ways to learn it well, 日语学习. However, they were useless.

Therefore, I think talent is really important for a person to learn sth. new.

P3

1. What kind of work do you think is boring?

There are a lot.

Many civil works are boring, such as secretaries, because they have to repeat the same thing day by day and year after year. Besides, their work lacks creativity, so it can be boring.

In addition, waitressing is also boring, because it's really hard for them to get a promotion. They feel hopeless about the future.

2. They are boring, but why are so many people willing to do them?

First of all, that kind of job is normally easier to get. I mean; you do not need to have a high degree background, nor do you need to have a strong comprehensive ability.

Second, you don't have to work late every day, as well as, worry about competing with too many people.

3. Do you think these jobs will be replaced by robots in the future?

Yes. In china, there is a famous hot pot business named HAIDILAO. Many of the restaurants group's stores are already using robots to deliver food and provide service. More importantly, those restaurants have very low error rates and are very popular.

- 3) Who you enjoyed it with
- 4) Why you enjoyed it

The game I'd like to describe is building blocks. When I was a kid, I always used hundreds of colorful blocks to construct various buildings, handicrafts or characters. Sometimes, I also gave some to my friends as a precious gift. Yeah, you know. After all, it was a work of art to some extent.

I played it when I was in primary school and middle school. At that time, I often participated in building blocks competitions.

And I always played it with my grandma, who is the person took care of me a lot when i was kid since my parents were so busy with business.

It was a little difficult actually. As a kid, my imagination was limited, and in order to finish different tasks, I needed to imagine so many pictures to match my inner thoughts. However, in this aspect, it was also an effective way to improve my art appreciation ability.

Moreover, this game improved my concentration. A small mistake or omission 遗漏 in building blocks can cause the failure. Hence, I had to do that meticulously [məˈlɪt ɪ kjələsli]一丝不苟地.

More importantly, this activity improved my sense of teamwork. Because if you want to make a complex model, you have to cooperate with your partners. For example, one person has to sort the blocks according to different colours, and another one has to put them together.

P3

1. What characteristics do you think a team leader should have?

A good team manager should have the ability to identify the capabilities of each team member. Only in this way, can the team's overall cooperation ability be effectively integrated, to maximize the effectiveness of the team.

What's more, good communication skills are also very important, because there are often many conflicts and contradictions between members, at which time the manager needs to play a regulating role.

2. What indoor games do children play these days?

3. Why children play teamwork games?

● A time you lied to someone

- 4) How you felt about that

6 months ago, my friend Peter and I planned to travel to Hangzhou together. + 各位 title 历介绍 hz.

However, as I was not feeling well before leaving, I lied to him and cancelled the plan.

Peter is one of my best friends, and we are classmates now. he is about 20 years old. In my eyes, Peter is a handsome with deep eyes, manly nose and good figure.

I told him that I had been asked by my tutor to write two papers to submit. I thought that if I told him directly that I didn't want to go because of the health, he wouldn't be able to accept that. I mean; that was too subjective.

Although we finally canceled the plan, I still feel rather guilty for him. Because later, he also helped me look up relevant materials, and accompanied me to write articles in the library. I was also very embarrassed, because everything was fake, and I had to think of a topic to write. I think I may never lie like this again.

P3

1. Why do people lie?

People lie about all sorts of things. For example, many parents in poor families will tell their children that they are full to save food for them. Besides, in order to attract people they are dating, a lot of people will lie to each other when they are meeting for the first time that they have a lot of advantages

2. Who is more likely to lie, children or adults?

It's hard to judge. Children lie because they are afraid their parents will find out what they have done wrong. For example, when their test scores are particularly low, they will modify their own data.

Adults lie because of profits. For example, in an interview, job seekers will always exaggerate their abilities to get the interviewer's approval.

Last summer, my little brother Peter came to my city and wanted to enjoy his summer vacation at my home. My city is called hz, a poetic and picturesque place located in the south of china.

The day after his arrival, I felt particularly sleepy because I had looked up data about my essay the night before. I mean; at that time, I was required to submit my paper within one weekend, so I worked all day long.

However, it was the first time for him to visit my hometown, and I hope to give him an unforgettable trip. Therefore, I needed to stay awake.

Then, I bought a cup of espresso to refresh myself. However, when we came to the west lake, the most gorgeous an famous landscape in my city, I felt very dizzy. I had no idea, so I took him to a restaurant to taste some local mouth-watering cuisines. And I took advantage of that time to take a nap. It was an embarrassing experience, but fortunately, Peter felt very happy.

- A water sport you would like to try in the future
 1. What it is
 2. Whether it is difficult to learn
 3. Where you want to try that sport
 4. Why you would like to try that water sport

The water activity I'd like to try in the future is diving, which is a very popular water sport all over the world, and you can even get a diving license.

I think it is rather difficult because you must learn how to adjust the pressure under the deep sea. Besides, you have to find a seaside place if you want to try this activity.

I'd like to do it in Hainan + 名位 title 历

There are many reasons why I want to try diving,

First, I guess the magical undersea world will be very, 【停顿下】 very wonderful. My favourite movie is The Little Mermaid/Finding Nemo made by Disney. Every time I watch that animation, I can't help but want to dance and sing with Ariel/Nemo in her/his underwater world. Learning to dive can at least give me some comfort. 【根据性别选择 Ariel/Nemo】

Second, my friend Anna told me that the landscapes under the sea are so gorgeous and quite different from the land. I want to take photos of some of them to save as my good memory.

Generally speaking, that is the water sport what I want to try.

✚ P3

- 1) What's the difference between outdoor sports and indoor sports?
- 2) What kinds of water sports are popular nowadays?
- 3) Do you think it is necessary for everyone to learn to swim?

Yes + if you cannot swim, when you drop into the deep water, you might be drowned.

- 4) What are the advantages and disadvantages of boat transport?

Boat transport will provide a chance for you to appreciate the unique landscapes of the sea. I mean; you can observe a lot of rare sea creatures on the cruise ship, such as blue whale, shark and so on. It is rather different from the views in land.

However, boat transport will be affected by the weather largely. When the typhoon comes, we can't choose the way.

- A practical skill you have learned

1. What it was
2. Who you learned it from
3. How you've learned it
4. Why you want to learn this skill

The skill I'd like to describe is Japanese, which is the official language of Japan. And I think that language is rather beautiful due to its lyric pronunciation.

I learned it with my friend Peter + 名职年外性

I learned it in many ways. For example, I would like to listen to Japanese radio on each morning. Moreover, I also insisted on watching Japanese animation every day.

I want to learn this skill for some reasons.

First, I was planning to have a trip to Japan at that time because my friend Anna told me that Japan has 横轴 2, such as the FUJI mountain and MEIJI shrine. I wanted to appreciate those views and take photos with them to save as my good memories. And I believed that Japanese would make the trip better.

Second, I hoped this skill could improve my confidence and patience. Because Peter said that Japanese is rather difficult. + 难逻辑 【改变最后一句时态: I may forget~】

Apparently, I did it. So, this skill tells me that 横轴 6.

P3

- 1) Why do some people prefer to do hands-on work, like fixing cars, rather than sitting in an office?

Normally, the salary of that type of job is higher than the jobs provided by office. The price, of course, is that they have to work hard. But they can feed a family.

What's more, those are high-demand industries, and no matter how society changes, even in the war time, we still need repairman.

2) Which is easier to learn skills, finding a teacher or learning them on the internet?

It depends.

For theoretical skills, like philosophy, language and so on, it's better to choose the internet, because this way will be more convenient. I mean; you can watch the recording at any time if you miss the class.

However, when it comes to practical skills, such as swimming, cooking, diving, and so on, you need to find a teacher because you should try them in person. and teachers can give you more targeted suggestions.

3) What kinds of skills are difficult to learn?

4) What is the most practical skill in modern society?

It's hard to say. I think a lot of skills are so important.

For example, we should have some high-tech operational capabilities. With the development of science and technology, the era of 5G is coming and the electronic products in our life will become more and more common. if we don't have such skills, we will easily be eliminated in the work.

Besides, cooking is also important. The food in the restaurant is normally very rich and salty, which will increase the risk of getting diseases, such as obesity. So, cooking skill can ensure our health.

两个月前，我与家人在黄山享受了一次难忘的旅程。其中，最令人津津乐道的地方，就是黄山那百闻不如一见的日出之景。

2 months ago, I enjoyed a memorable trip with my relatives in Huangshan, which is a famous tourist attraction in China also called Yellow Mountain. During the trip, the most impressive thing was the sunrise of Huangshan. We call it as "one picture is worth a thousand words". Yes, that's right. {微笑&鼻子眉头往中间凑&频繁点头}

黄山，位于中国东部。黄山以群山峻石，奇美日落，迎客松，黄山温泉及云海胜景而闻名于世。也正是在这个地方，我与我的父母欣赏到了人生中从未见过的美妙天空。

Huangshan is a mountain range in southern Anhui province in eastern China. This area is well known for its scenery, sunsets, sunrises, pine trees, hot springs and views of the clouds from above. And this place offered us a wonderful sky that we had never seen before.

在我们登上黄山的次日清晨，约莫凌晨 5 点，清脆的鸟鸣声唤醒了熟睡的观景人。在山巅之上，太阳刚刚突破海平面缓缓升起。不像平日里见到的那般刺眼，日出的太阳散发着柔和与温暖的光芒。云层此起彼伏，变化莫测，构成了黄山云海，辉映着日出的光芒，与山上的怪石和造型各异的松木构成了一幅旷世绝伦的美妙画卷。倘若是一幅人间真品，即便是最普通的画师造就，也值千金。

Around 5 am in the morning after we climbed the mount Huangshan, the melodious sound of birds woke up the sleeping travelers. At the top, the sun had just risen above sea level. Unlike the blinding light we usually see, the rising sun shone softly and warmly. The mountaintops also offered views of the clouds from above, known as the "Sea of Clouds" or "Huangshan Sea" because of the cloud's resemblance [rɪˈzembəns]相似 n. to an ocean.
