成药配方参考

1. Elon Musk

R6 - His name is Elon Musk, and we usually call him the Iron Man in the flesh, who is in his early 50s. He is my idol, who focuses on many areas such as technology, energy and the exploration of space, and he always gives me an impression of being a person who is straightforward, decisive, and smart (loves reading).

NR - Frankly speaking, I can't remember exactly when I saw him for the first time, because it's been ages, but, if my memory serves me, it was probably 12 or 13 years ago. I was in a Tesla store, and I was very amazed by the new electric cars. Then I saw a huge poster of him, and I wondered who he was, then the salesman told me it was Elon Musk, the founder of the company.

总分 - As for what he likes to read, well, as far as I know, there are many kinds of books he finds hard to put down. To be more specific, he's really into business books. And in the last ten years, he has become a big fan of a space series called The Big Picture. I have read it too; these books talk about space and the origin of life. I think the book influenced his views and made him want to explore space.

NS - To tell you the truth, I'm not 100% sure about the reason why he's so fond of reading, since I don't have the chance to ask him about it and he never told me in person either, anyway, as far as I can guess, it would be his habit from childhood.

R6 - One of the people I'd like to talk about is Kevin, an elderly man, who's in his late 50s. He is my neighbor, who works as a nurse in a local hospital. Honestly, he always gives me an impression of being kind, caring and **.

NR - Frankly speaking, I can't remember exactly when I saw him for the first time, because it's been ages, but, if my memory serves me, it was probably 12 or 13 years ago. I was in a hospital, not in our community. I remember that I had injured my leg while playing basketball, and he was my nurse in the hospital. He helped me a lot to recover as soon as possible. Even though he was just doing his job, he went above and beyond to make sure I felt comfortable and motivated during the recovery process. I was really touched by his kindness and patience.

After I got to know him, I was surprised to realize that he was also well-known in our neighborhood for his friendliness and willingness to help others. He's respected by everyone in our community, and people often go to him for advice or assistance.

手工 - Through our conversations, I learned that he is also a handicraft enthusiast. He often knits when he isn't busy, which is not common among males. The reason that he's developed this hobby, as he puts it, is that it's a great practice for his fingers, hands, and eyes to be flexible, stable and sharp. Plus, it's also a more meaningful way to give others gifts made by himself.

便宜 - Since he's pretty efficient on knitting, he needs lots of materials to support this hobby. That's why he usually grabs great bargains of knitting needles and yarn online. One of the usual places was a kind of online flea market by the name of xianyu, also known as Idle Fish.

On the day I was discharged from the hospital, I decided to buy him some top-notch knitting supplies as a thank-you gift, and we became even closer. This small gesture helped strengthen our friendship, and now we often sit together and chat about various topics, from life experiences to hobbies. He even shares interesting stories from his younger days, which I find truly inspiring.

MC - it's a kind of Chinese traditional cuisine, called Yuebing (Zongzi/Jiaozi), also known as mooncakes (sticky rice dumpling/dumplings) in English, and what it's basically made of is flour, nuts, meat (glutenous rice, dates, red bean paste, meat) and so on. And we usually make and eat them for some special occasions, especially when it comes to Mid-Autumn Festival (Dragon Boat Festival/Spring Festival).

MAD - NS - I'm not 100% sure about the exact date of this traditional festival because it's never on the same date according to the western calendar, but correct me if I'm wrong, it usually comes around the end of September or the beginning of October.

Apron - It's an apron, and I can't tell you exactly what it's made of, but it feels strong and easy to clean. In general, it's in black, and there are some beautiful golden dragons printed on the front of the apron. Honestly, I'm really into this apron because, when I put it on, I felt like I'm really good at cooking.

Ok, so, my favourite food at a traditional festival would be a kind of Chinese traditional cuisine, called Yuebing (Zongzi/Jiaozi), also known as mooncakes (sticky rice dumpling/dumplings) in English, and what it's basically made of is flour, vegetables, meat (glutenous rice, dates, red bean paste, meat) and so on. And we usually make and eat them for some special occasions, especially when it comes to Mid-Autumn Festival (Dragon Boat Festival/Spring Festival).

Frankly speaking, I'm not 100% sure about exactly when we eat it every year on the Mid-Autumn Day, because it's never on the same day according to the lunar calendar, but as far as I can see, it usually comes either in the late January or in the early February.

As for how it is made, well, there are three basic steps. First and foremost, we make some dough by mixing flour and water, as well as some fillings with different flavours such as yolk, mixed nuts and fruits. Next, we wrap the fillings with the dough, and make it into various shapes like square, round, heart etc. (with beautiful and delicate patterns on the face). Last but not least, we put them in the oven until the outside turns gold.

As far as I'm concerned, I'm really into this particular delicacy because I find it incredibly delicious/mouthwatering, and it's such a meaningful festival since it symbolises family reunion.

SBS - 5 连

It's a subway station called ABC, located in the  of . It's not far from my home, which takes me about 10 minutes to arrive by bike. It's not only a subway station, but also an important transport hub that connects other subway lines, shuttle bus station and express way.

Weather

The sky was covered with thick and dark clouds, and there was strong wind, and what was worse, it was raining cats and dogs not long after I left home for school. Luckily, I was already on the bus. However, the traffic was unbearably slow due to the weather. It was literally moving like a snail.

Noise

I was shocked by how noisy the place was. There were so many people on the platform, talking, laughing, kids crying, with the announcements from the speaker, and trembling sound of the subway trains.

Crowd

Not only that, the bigger problem was the crowd itself. Apparently, above the ground, the rain drove thousands of commuters down to the subway, and so, for me, it was impossible to get on the subway that was already packed with people.

Rule

It's called baggage and luggage check, which is a kind security protocol, and what it's basically about is to use x-ray machines to examine the content in bags and large suitcases before entering particular places such as train stations, airports and so on. I can understand that it's for our safety when taking public transport, but sometimes it could be really troublesome.

Result - late

I had a bad feeling about the result that I could still be late after trying everything I could, and so it came. I waited for about 15 minutes to finally get on the subway and I was late for the morning class. Words can't describe how embarrassed I was when I walked to my seat while my teacher and classmates were looking at me.

Result - not late

I had a bad feeling about the result that I could still be late after trying everything I could, but a miracle happened. There came a train that wasn't as full as the previous ones, and what happened next was exactly what usually happens with subway when people take subway. I arrived at school right on time.

Describe an indoor or outdoor place where it is easy for you to study

Describe an ideal and perfect place where you would like to stay (e.g. a house, an apartment)

Describe a quiet place you like to go

Describe a place you have been to and would like to recommend others to live there (not your hometown)

Describe a room you really like in another person's home

You should say:

Where it is - BCH

What it is like - 上下左右

What you can do in it - 总分

And explain why you really like it - 感因

BCH - It's on a beach, located in the south of China, where the weather is warm and sunny. It's far from my city, which takes me at least three hours to get there by plane. More importantly, it's a quiet place, away from the hustle and bustle of the city.

上下左右 - As I stand by the door, there is a huge French window on the other side of the room. On the left-hand side of the room is a queen-size single bed, which is super comfortable, with a lot of soft toys by the pillow. On the right-hand side stands a tall wardrobe with a built-in study desk and a shelf where I can put my books and other toys. Besides, on the ceiling, there is a light that can project the view of different constellations on the ceiling and the walls in the room at night, making it a perfect place to fall asleep.

抽具 - I can do many things in the room. To be specific, I can enjoy some quality sleep on the bed. Plus, I can focus on my study and homework on my desk. Last but not least, I can even stretch out and do some exercise on the wooden floor when the weather is not suitable.

感因 - I have to say that I fell in love with her room at first sight because I find it perfect and exactly as I've ever imagined.

BCH 2 - It should be on a beach, located/situated in the south of China, where the weather is warm and sunny. It would be far from my city, which could take me at least three hours to get there by plane. More importantly, it should be a quiet place, away from the hustle and bustle of the city.

8. 故宫/颐和园

Describe a public park or garden

Describe a cultural place that you would like to learn the culture there (e.g. a library, museum, theatre)

Describe an interesting building

Ok, so, one of the historical buildings that I visited before would be a famous tourist attraction by the name of the Palace Museum, also known as the Forbidden City, located in the very center of Beijing. It's quite far from my school, which takes me about 2 hours to arrive by subway.

From afar, there are tall, thick, and red walls, as well as magnificent buildings with golden rooftops. Within the four walls, I can see strong pillars, and railing made of white marble, with beautiful carving on them. In the chamber, there are a lot of priceless and elegant exhibits, such as the throne of the emperor, porcelain products, foldable screen with Chinese traditional style and so on.

Regarding what it is used for now, it's a public museum that is popular not only among Chinese people, but also foreign travellers all around the world. However, it used to be an imperial palace for the emperors and their families to live, work, and entertain.

As for what I learned there, it's a great place to learn Chinese history and traditional culture, and it gives me a sense of pride because of the presentation of craftsmanship.

9. jogging/阿甘正传

Describe a prize you have received recently (e.g. money, something valuable, a medal)

Describe a positive change that you have made recently in your daily routine

Describe someone who is willing to openly share things with you

Describe an athlete/sports team you admire

Describe a sport that you really like

Describe a TV series you like

You know, I used to be physically inactive and sometimes depressed, and I just couldn't find a way or put my solution into action, so, yeah, I'm a thinker, not a doer.

Then I became depressed and insomniac due to my study, so my life was like a nightmare to me both day and night until he/she showed up. He advised me to try jogging because he believes it's a good way for me to establish a healthy lifestyle that can help me better complete other things in my life such as study, shopping, cooking etc.

One weekend, however, I watched Forrest Gump, a movie I'd heard a lot about but had never actually seen. In the movie, there's a memorable part where Forrest runs across the United States, driven simply by his own sense of purpose and determination. After watching Forrest's life journey, I was struck by how his persistence and love for running helped him overcome obstacles. That scene made a big impression on me, and for the first time, I felt a spark of interest in activities like hiking and running.

FG - Running becomes a way for him to connect with people and share his story, and most importantly, to search for meaning of life and escape from his troubles.

Honestly, I wasn't fully convinced at the beginning. But several days later, the miracle happened. I was in a much better mood, and I was able to sleep soundly, and most importantly, I've found the strength to start making myself happy and motivated.

10. 魔方

Describe a live performance you enjoyed watching

Describe a (jigsaw, crossword, etc) puzzle you have played

Ok, so, a live performance I've watched would be...um...

To be honest, I can't remember exactly when I watched it, since it was many years ago. But if my memory serves me, it should be during a summer holiday when I was still in primary school. The game was about Rubik's Cube, which is a 3-D combination puzzle, invented some forty years ago by a Hungarian professor called Rubik. Apparently, that's how the game was named.

You know, I was just switching between different channels, and then suddenly, I saw two players on the stage, trying to solve the cube puzzle as soon as possible. I have to say that the game was really intense since both players were fully focused and swivelling their own cubes swiftly. In the end, the winner finished within 10 seconds, which left me jaw-dropped. To a little kid like me, it was infinitely close to real magic, and that's why I began to grow interested in this game.

Apparently, I asked my parents for this magical cube, and I got it as my new toy. Truth to be told, it's one of the few toys I haven't lost interest in till now.

However, later I learnt that there's a mathematical formula to this cube puzzle. To master the cube you must learn a sequence of movements that can be performed in successive order. So, that's the 'magic' solving the puzzle within seconds, namely following that formula. Actually, I can even find heaps of solution tutorials online that'll teach people how to achieve this step by step. However, maths is never my strong suit, so I like to follow my instinct instead. Often it can take me an hour or so to solve it, but the fun comes from the process, so it's 100 percent genuine, thanks to the original inspiration from the game I watched.

Describe a time when you answered a phone call from someone you didn't know in a public place

You should say:

When and where it happened

Who called you

What he or she said

How you corresponded

And explain how you felt about the experience

Frankly speaking, I can't remember exactly when it happened, because it's been ages, but if my memory serves me, it was probably two years ago when I was preparing for my final exam in the library.

My mobile phone suddenly vibrated, and I didn't know the number but I still answered it because I was waiting for my food delivery, and naturally I thought it was the delivery man.

To my surprise, it was a woman whose name was Tina, who sounded like that she was in her thirties. She said that she was a client manager in some clinical agency, and she asked me if I was interested in making some quick money. By the way she talked, she gave me an impression of being enthusiastic and persuasive.

As for what she said, to be honest, I'm not 100% sure about the specific content, since she used a lot of professional terminologies that were very specialised in the medical field, but as far as I could gather, it was about a paid service of pregnancy, which means bearing other people's babies using my own womb.

After that, I refused her offer by hanging up the phone and told her off to the police.

In hindsight/Looking back on that, I'm still a little scared and concerned about those poor girls who might have agreed to do that.

Describe an interesting song

You should say:

What the song is

What story the song tells

Whether the song is popular

And explain why you think it is interesting

Ok, so, an interesting song that comes to mind is...um...frankly speaking, I can't remember exactly the name of the song, because it's been ages since I heard it last time, but if my memory serves me, it was probably called Love story, performed by Taylor Swift.

Speaking of what story the song tells, honestly, I'm not 100% sure about that, since the lyrics of the song is in English, and so I can't fully understand the meaning of it, anyway, correct me if I'm wrong, the story was probably about Romeo and Juliet.

As for whether the song is popular, to tell you the truth, I can't give you the answer, for I don't have the data, like the number of download or the sales of the album, however, as far as I could see, it was a huge hit because it could be heard pretty much everywhere especially in shopping malls and cafeteria.

As far as I'm concerned, I think the song was quite interesting because at that time, many people used this song to ask their boyfriends or girlfriends to marry them.

Describe a new law you would like to introduce in your country

You should say:

What law it is - NS

What changes this law brings - 抽具

How you came up with the new law - NR

Whether this new law will be popular - NG

And explain how you feel about this new law - 感因

Ok, so, a new law I would like to introduce in my country,...um...frankly speaking, I'm not 100% sure about how I should name the law, or which law system it belongs to, like the civil law or the criminal law, because I'm not majoring in law, but as far as I can tell, the law is to protect the endangered species in China.

Basically, I think the law can bring two major changes. To begin with, it enforces people to stop killing and start to let the animals reproduce in sanctuary. Then, when the number is big enough, they can return to their natural habitat.

Speaking of how I came up with the new law, honestly, I can't remember exactly when it happened, since it's been ages, anyway, if my memory serves me, it was probably 2 or 3 years ago when I heard some terrible news about some species being extinct.

As for whether this new law will be popular, to tell you the truth, I can't give you the answer, for I can't predict the future, however, I hope that this law can be well accepted by the public and effective in animal preservation.

Ok, so, an important river or lake in my country would be huanghe, also known as the yellow river, or the mother river in China, located in the north of China, flowing across most of the northern provinces such as Shaanxi, Shanxi, and Inner Mongolia. It's quite far from where I live, which takes me about 6 hours to get there by car. Frankly speaking, I can't give the exact information about this great river, because I'm not majoring in geography, but as far as I know, it's the second longest river in China, at the length of at least 3000 kilometers.

As for what it looks like, from afar in the sky, . Moving closer, the upstream of the river is clear and downstream becomes muddy. However, in recent year, the downstream of the yellow river has been getting clearer and clearer thanks to the environmental protection initiatives.

To tell you the truth, I'm not 100% sure about why it's important, since there are too many aspects in our life that are related to this mother river, anyway, if I have to pick a reason or two, I believe the main reason could be that it's the origin of the Chinese civilisation, and it plays a critical role in agriculture and natural resources.

And explain why it is important - NG - one of the important sources of food

OK, talking about an important plant in my country, um, that would be a famous plant called bamboo. Frankly speaking, I'm not 100% sure about what kind of plant it is, I mean, whether it's a tree or bush, because I'm not majoring in Botany, but correct me if I'm wrong, I think it's a tree, although it looks a bit strange.

For example, they're quite tall, up to more than 10 meters, and their stems/trunks are comparatively thin with multiple sections. Plus, their leaves are green, slender and pointy. What's more, they're tough on the outside and hollow on the inside.

As for where I see it, um, to be honest, I can't remember exactly when I saw it for the first time, since it's been ages, anyway if my memory serves me, it was probably when I was 4 or 5 years ago, in a public park near my home. Then as I grew up, I learned that bamboo is common in Sichuan province, located in the southwest of China. It's quite far from where I am, which takes me at least 3 hours to arrive by plane. Speaking of why it's important in China, to tell you the truth, I can't give you a perfect answer, for I haven't thought about it before, however, as far as I can see, there could be two reasons. Firstly, it's the main material for chopsticks, a must-have cutlery for Chinese people. Secondly, it's the main source of food for our national treasure, the Giant Panda.
